Despite social and political disputes, King's dream lives on in Mississippi

"Through our scientific and technological genius, we have made of this world a neighborhood and yet we have not had the ethical commitment to make of it a brotherhood. But somehow, and in some way, we have got to do this. We must all learn to live together as brothers or we will all perish together as fools. We are tied together in the single garment of destiny, caught in an inescapable network of mutuality. And whatever affects one directly affects all indirectly. For some strange reason I can never be what I ought to be until you are what you ought to be. And you can never be what you ought to be until I am what I ought to be. This is the way God's universe is made; this is the way it is structured."

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday celebration is on Monday and its closeness to the Christmas holiday season apparently caught many locals unprepared. When I called around town to try to find a ceremony, a celebration, or a special program being held in conjunction with the holiday, I came up empty handed. Many people said they had thought about doing something, but didn't actually get around to organizing anything. Some organized celebrations will take place in other areas of the coast.

Of course that didn't excuse me from the responsibility of writing something to acknowledge this national holiday that millions of people fought long and hard to get and finally did get in 1986, the first year King was honored nationally. President Ronald Reagan signed the holiday into existence in 1983, the first national holiday created since Memorial Day was created in 1948.

The first legislation requesting the holiday was submitted to Congress, by Michigan Democrat Representative John Conyers, just days after King was assassinated on April 4, 1968. Petitions carrying more than six million signatures were submitted to Congress in 1970 in favor of the holiday and legislation continued to be resubmitted with the help of New York Democratic Representative Shirley Chisholm. Finally, after 15 years, the legislation made it through.

In 1986 King was the only American besides George Washington to have a national holiday designated for his birthday. The compromise to celebrate the holiday on the third Monday in January, initiated by Democratic Indiana Representative Katie Hall, rather than King's actual January 15 birthday, may have had something to do with legislation finally passing, said supporters. The day gave people a three day weekend and often fell after Super Bowl Sunday.

Supporters recognized that holiday proposals often received a lot of opposition, usually dominated by discussions on the cost of the day to government and private sector economics. Opposition also questioned whether King's legacy would stand the test of time.

A good question, but certainly King's ideas and teachings have withstood the test of time and have been an inspiration in the decades following his untimely death. And though there looks to be no organized celebrations taking place locally, the day can still be a time to take another look at those teachings and revive their timeless message in our consciousness.

It is also not too late as individuals to participate in what King called the great equalizer, service to our fellow man.

"Everybody can be great, because everybody can serve," said King and so it is not too late to honor the man by turning his holiday into a day of service. Even if it means something so simple as helping a homebound neighbor or cleaning up your block.

A Baptist minister by trade, King has been portrayed many times as a dreamer of dreams, but he was much more, he was a doer of deeds. His impassioned speeches and artful leadership gave hope to those who had lost their faith and the possibility of choices to those who thought they had none. And he believed that when men and women believe that they have hope for the future and choices for that future than great things can be accomplished.

And there lay King's true power, the power to make people believe that things would get better, not just for blacks, not just for whites, but for all men.

Inspired by the teachings of the great Indian pacifist Mohandas K. Gandhi, King taught his followers to use a peaceful means to accomplish great ends. Love was the answer, he taught, not hate and bitterness.

He spoke of a world that was "color blind," where men and women were judged not by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character, where all men lived in brotherhood.

It sounds like a nice world to live in and now so many years later, so far removed from the great turmoil of the 1960's it is a little hard to imagine why James Earl Ray found it necessary to assassinate King for fighting to spread beliefs such as these. It was a time of great social change when, King said, he sought to "disturb the comfortable and comfort the disturbed." A tough job to take on and in the end a dangerous one, costing him his life.

King mentioned the State of Mississippi in many of his speeches and letters as an example of a place with a mindset that needed to change. But I doubt that the towns and communities in Mississippi were much different than the small town I grew up in on the Texas coast.

I imagine the signs that hung over the water fountain, on the restroom door and on the separate waiting room door at the doctor's office I went to for all my childhood, said the same thing in Mississippi as they did in Texas, Colored.

I remember them vividly and I remember asking my parents why. The answer—that's just the way it is—was probably much the same one that children in Mississippi heard too. An answer that too many children still hear today; does it sound familiar.

King said in his Letter From A Birmingham Jail that he was asked why he had to take such direct confrontational actions, why he couldn't just wait for things to change. When you have to explain to your six year old daughter that she can't go to an amusement park, that she just saw advertised on TV because it is closed to blacks; when you have to watch the tears well up in her eyes and the clouds of inferiority beginning to form in her mind and watch the unconscious bitterness begin to form in her heart, then you will know why we can't wait any longer, he said.

Was King's dream just that, a dream? Will people ever, black, white, brown, yellow and every shade in between, who live in poor neighborhoods, in rich neighborhoods, who are members of different tribes, churches, ethnic groups, political parties and so on ever take the time and the effort required to reach out to one another and judge the individual not by their differences, but by their individual character?

I don't know, but I do know that if people do make this effort they are likely to be rewarded with some of the best friends they will ever have and they are likely to grow as individuals themselves and in the process make their world a more loving place to be.

And what a better day to start making that effort than on the day that honors a man who gave his life for the dream of brotherhood between all men and women, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Kiln woman's arrest solves two previous burglaries

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

The arrest of a Silver Creek Community woman has solved two burglaries, according to Hancock Investigator Matt Barnett.

Barnett said, "Natalie Miller, 21, Wisteria St., Kiln, was arrested on Jan. 7, and charged with two burglaries, one 18 months ago."

"We had a search warrant for Miller's residence, as deputies Tim Campbell and Tina Ladner started the investigation. We found numerous items from two burglaries, one 18 months ago," Barnett reported.

The investigator continued, "Miller's bond was set at $40,500, as during later investigation a Remington Shotgun was recovered. Her charges are felony possession of a stolen firearm, felony possession of stolen property, in addition to a misdemeanor charge of a petty larceny involving an air compressor which has been located at a Gulfport pawn shop."

The burglary items recovered included, numerous jewelry items, mostly costume jewelry.

Additionally, "Christopher Bernard 24, was also charged with petty larceny in connection with the air compressor theft. Bernard's bond was set at $500," Barnett said.

If found guilty of the possession of the stolen firearm, Miller could face up to 15 years in jail, Barnett reported.

Deputy Campbell did a great job in starting the investigation and Deputy Ladner recognized some of the items reported from the old burglary, according to Barnett.

Late Friday, a search warrant was served on a Miller mini-storage unit in Kiln. "We recovered more stolen property, about $350 in value, and an additional misdemeanor charge of possession of stolen property to her charges," Barnett reported.

Stolen Arkansas vehicle recovered

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

The Hancock County Sheriff's department recovered a vehicle stolen in Jacksonville, Arkansas on Dec. 28, according to Chief Investigator Kenny Hurt.

"Joey M. Noles, 48, of Shoreline Park was arrested

Thursday and charged with possession of a stolen vehicle," said Investigator John Luther who is in charge of the investigation.

Luther said the sheriff's office received a tip Thursday on a stolen vehicle parked behind a hour at the intersection of Arizona and Gulf Streets in Shoreline.

Capt. Joe Heron and Sgt. Push Phillips went to the residence and ran the VIN number and got a hit, Luther reported.

Noles bond was set at $1,000 and the Jacksonville Police department has been contacted, Luther added.

Dog fighting sickens Hancock residents

The most talk about the community this week was the discovery of a dog fighting ring in an isolated section of Hancock County in action by three deputy sheriffs.

The 28 dogs removed from the premises, most will probably be euthanized because of their many injuries, has sickened many residents.

Sheriff's deputies Tim Campbell, Sgt. Jason Chandler and Sgt. Doug Ladner all need to be commended on their efforts leading to the arrest 22 of persons on the night of the bust. Several more arrests have been made since then.

It so happened that Investigator Matt Barnett, who is leading the investigation and Deputy Campbell were involved in a dog fighting bust in Pearl River County back in 1992.

Sheriff's Chief Investigator Kenny Hurt, the investigator department, other deputies and jailers, all need to be recognized too.

Hurt, who has been with the sheriff's department full time for the past 19 years told me on Thursday, the dog fighting incident has drawn more media attention than any murder case the sheriff's office has been involved in his career.

The only case I can recall so much media attention was the Cowboy Dale Morris' three murder trials in the mid-1950s.

Hurt said he has already received calls from three Louisiana Sheriff departments requesting the names of the persons arrested to see if any reside in their parish.

There are a lot of things law enforcement officers are faced with, and the general public really doesn't know about.

People just do not like to see cruelty to animals happening and I am one of those too.

We need not forget about our Animal Wardens from Bay St. Louis, Waveland and County, in addition to the Waveland Animal Shelter and the Harrison County Animal Shelter, where the animals were transported too. They played an important role in their task, as well as Veterinarian Charles West.

It is interesting that most of the arrests were of folks from neighboring Louisiana.

Many will be awaiting to see what happens in Hancock County courts when these cases are presented to a grand jury.

Housekeeping — A Weekly Summary

BY REPS. J.P. COMPRETTA and JESSICA UPSHAW

Haley Reeves Barbour's inauguration and first address to the citizens as Mississippi's 63rd governor and the announcement of committee assignments in the House of Representatives highlighted the second week of the 2004 Legislature.

Gov. Barbour took the oath of office on Jan. 13 from State Supreme Court Justice Edwin Pittman, as a throng estimated at 5,000 people jammed the south lawn of the State Capitol to watch the event.

Speaker of the House Billy McCoy called the inauguration ceremony to order.

The Yazoo City native and longtime national Republican leader expressed gratitude for the trust placed in him.

"The people of Mississippi can bestow no greater honor on one of its sons or daughters than to elect him governor," Barbour said. "I'm deeply honored to serve as your governor, and I'm also humbled by the enormous trust you've placed in me. I'll do my utmost to be deserving of that trust."

He praised outgoing Gov. Ronnie Musgrove's help in providing a smooth transition from one leader to another. Gov. Barbour then pushed politics aside, saying to other officeholders, "This is not about party or politics. It's about solving problems and taking advantage of opportunities. As elected officials, we serve not as Republicans or Democrats, but as public servants whose fellow Mississippians have elected us to move our state forward. We're not here to represent black or white, urban or rural, north Mississippi or south Mississippi."

He promised to "establish and maintain" a solid working relationship with the Legislature. "Just as nobody ever got elected by himself, no one can govern by himself," said the 56-year-old Barbour.

Historic preservation ordinance vital to Bay St. Louis' future

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Miss Lorraine deMontluzin for her interesting letter of January 15 concerning the proposed preservation ordinance for Bay Saint Louis.

Bay Saint Louis is the third oldest city on the Gulf of Mexico. It is 21 years older than New Orleans. It was the first incorporated city in the state of Mississippi.

In recognition of this outstanding community, the Department of Archives and History conducted a study of properties within the city in 1977 and established five historic districts included in which were 576 individual properties deemed to be of historic importance or selected because they lie within one of those precise historic districts.

Each property was surveyed, mapped and described in architectural terms according to its style, age, conformity to surrounding properties, etc.

These listings offer some protection to the property owners without further action. For instance, it prevented the demolition of three houses on Railroad Avenue because no Federal money can be spent on any project which adversely affects a historic district.

It assured that the insurance company replace in kind the dormers on a major beachfront home following a disastrous fire.

And again that the insurance company replace the windows of the Old Spanish Custom House (1787) with wooden ones rather than metal ones following a lightning strike.

However, only the city can institute legal requirements supporting these properties.

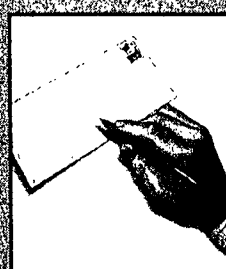

On July 22, 1997, the mayor and city council appointed a 12-member committee to study and write an ordinance to further protect important properties. I was elected

Support Bay's preservation ordinance

Dear Editor:

An ordinance to preserve historic property and prevent deterioration would benefit Bay St. Louis.

The Federal Government favors it because it deters the encroachment of slum areas. In New Orleans we restored an 1850 house been neglected for years. Not only did we receive an award from the city but also a credit to our tax return. The requirements were not difficult to follow and the neighborhood was greatly enhanced by our project.

Most up and coming communities have such an ordinance and Bay St. Louis should certainly be among them.

Pass downs Rocks, Tigers upset Gators on the basketball court

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

For the second consecutive season, the Pass Christian Pirates have defeated the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws in their first meeting of the season. The Pirates used a late rally to defeat the Rocks 49-41 that vaulted them into a tie for first place with the Gautier Gators in Division 8 Class 4A. The Pirates also had a helping hand from the homestanding Bay High Tigers who defeated the Gators 39-36 across town on Friday, January 16.

The game between the Pirates (12-6, 5-1) and the Rocks (16-5, 5-2) is always a good one. And, Friday's contest was not any different. SSC jumped out to a half-time lead of 25-20.

Darius Acker hit a three-point shot and Mario Faranda banked a shot in to give SSC a 30-23 advantage with 5:21 left in the third period. But, by the 1:49 mark Billy Crawford had given the Pirates the lead at 32-30. Robert Ray Smith tied the game for SSC before Roscoe Forch lifted Pass Christian to a 33-32 advantage at the end of the half on a charity shot. Rob Murray gave SSC their last lead of the game with a basket with 6:14 left to play.

Pass Christian head coach Buddy Kennedy stated, "This is a very tough district. The tournament this year is going to be wild. We went to Gautier on Tuesday, and just got dominated on the boards over there. I was unsure of how we would bounce back after that loss. However, we came out and played hard. ... We are starting to get some good chemistry on the court, especially with the players we got off the football field late."

The Pirates were led by Roscoe Forch with 17 points. He also drew the awesome assignment of chasing SSC guard Darius Acker around all night. Kennedy continued, "We asked a lot of Roscoe Forch on both defense and offense tonight. He responded to the challenge as did the rest of our players in the game."

Chad Musgrove added 12 points and Brandon Miller 10 points in the win. The Rocks were led by Mario Faranda with 13 points followed by Darius Acker with 10 points. The Rocks missed 67 shots in the game and their two top rebounding post players combined for just 6 rebounds in the game.

SSC head coach Jay Ladner said, "This game was very similar to the Gautier game earlier in the season. We were whipped and out played. Until we decide that toughness is what it takes to win the close games that can go either way, we will continue down this path."

The Rocks host Vancleave on Tuesday, January 20th while Pass Christian hits the road to D'Iberville.

Across town at the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium, the Bay High Tigers (13-7, 4-3) took it to the Gautier Gators on the defensive end and frustrated ed the league leading team in a 39-36 win.

Bay High led 9-6 after the first period and increased that lead to 20-8 by half-time. However, Gautier came storming back in the third period and outscored the Tigers 20-4 to lead 28-24 going into the final period of play. Defensive play and free throws were the difference in the game. Bay High head coach Alan Lumpkin stated, "We played a man-to-man defense all game. This was the best defensive effort we have had since I have been at Bay High. We executed on offense; however, the turning point in the game was our defensive play, an our performance at the free throw line."

In the fourth period alone, the Tigers were 10-for-12 from the charity stripe. In the game Marquez Singleton was a perfect 6-for-6 at the line followed by Javon Williams at 5-for-6 and Lorenzo Lewis at 4-for-6.

Lumpkin said, "We jumped out on them in the first half but we knew they would come around. And, they did in the third period outscoring us 20-4. But, we kept fighting back and staying in the game."

In the fourth period, Gautier was up 28-24 when Lorenzo Lewis' three-point shot brought Bay High within one at 28-27. Then, Javon Williams tied the game at 30-30 with a free throw about :38 later. Back-to-back buckets by Gibraltar White pushed Gautier back to a 34-30 lead. With the score tied 36-36, Singleton nailed two free throws to give Bay High a bucket lead with :16 left to play. Bay High takes a charge to get the ball back and Lewis is sent to the line with :06 remaining. He sinks one of the two free throws for a 39-36 lead which Bay High holds on to for the win.

Singleton led the Tigers with 13 points followed by Lewis and Javon Williams with 9 points each. Joseph Sims scored 8 points, all in the second period.

In the girls game, the Lady Tigers cruised to a 55-29 win after leading at one point 40-6 in the third period. It wasn't until :58 left in the third period when Gautier hit double-digits on the scoreboard. The Lady Tigers jumped out to a 13-0 lead in the first and held a 29-5 advantage at intermission.

Bay High head coach Debbie Triplett stated, "We needed to play the starters to keep them in a groove. However, this game was a great chance for us to play some of the younger players and give them good game experience. Next Friday, we travel to Harrison Central. They will give us a great push and test our team."

Kendra Reed led the Lady Tigers with 20 points and 8 rebounds while Destiny Porter had 10 points and 6 rebounds.

In basketball action earlier in the week, the Pirates dropped a pair of games to the Gators of Gautier on the road. The Pirates were defeated 72-58. Billy Crawford scored 16 points followed by Chad Musgrove with 15 points to lead Pass Christian. In the girls game, the Lady Pirates fell to the Lady Gators 36-23. Tomeaka Fields led Pass Christian with 11 points.

The Hancock Lady Hawks (14-3) handed the Lady Maroon Tide a 63-43 loss. Hancock was led by four players in double-digits. Brooke Nicaise led the way with 13 points followed by Courtney Craft and Ashley Boehnel with 10 points and Amanda Arcement with 10 points.

The Bay High Tigers split a pair of games with Moss Point on the road. The Tigers were defeated 112-62. All 15 players for Moss Point scored in the win while Marquez Singleton led Bay High with 23 points.

The Lady Tigers defeated Moss Point 66-57. Destiny Porter led a trio of Lady Tigers with 22 points followed by Kendra Reed with 17 points and Felicia Thomas with 11 points.

In recent soccer action, the OLA Crescents (16-4-1) clinched the division championship on Tuesday, January 13, with a 9-0 shutout win over the Lady Crusaders of Mercy Cross. Rachel Cranford scored the hat trick for OLA and Margaret Rittiner added two scores. Kira Reaver, Laura Ellis, Meghan Flynt, and Whitney Stewart each scored once. Cranford also tallied three assists followed by Flynt with two assists. Ellen Dauterive, Ellis, Rittiner, and Margaret Hadden all had one assist. Annie Giardino tallied the shutout in goal.

In junior varsity action, the Crescents defeated Mercy Cross 3-0. Cassie Schaffer, Kay pouriraji, and Lauren Goulet all scored. Kay pouriraji and Annie Giardino each had an assist. Amelia Simpson recorded the shutout in goal. The JV record now stands at 9-1. In junior high soccer action, OLA recorded a 6-0 win on January 12 against Long Beach. Shelby Wild scored the hat trick followed by Jaime Reisch with two goals and Bri Johnston with one. Jennifer Loiacano, Olivia Hoff, Maddie Michelli and Leah Seal all had assists.

Athletes should begin their training now for Area III Special Olympics

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Athletes need to dust off their track shoes and begin training now to be ready for the annual John C. Stennis Area III Track and Field Competitions scheduled for April 3, 2004.

To be eligible to compete, athletes must be at least eight years old (no upper age limit), be mentally handicapped, and must have a current medical form on file with the Special Olympics.

Peggy Lamey, Area III Director, urges all eligible athletes to plan now for this fun-filled day of games and activities.

Athletes may sign up through their school's Special Education Office or by calling Lamey.

Track and field competitions, patterned on the World Olympics, include an opening ceremony and parade of athletes, relays races, bocce ball, volleyball, wheelchair races, assisted walks, badminton, basketball, standing and running long jumps, shot put, and 50-, 100-, 200- and 400-meter dashes. An assortment of fun events and entertainment will also be available.

According to Stennis Chairperson Jane Johnson, this event draws more than 250 athletes from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River, and Stone counties, as well as over 500 volunteers and sponsors.

The mission of the Special Olympics is to provide year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic type sports for all mentally retarded children and adults, giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy, and participate in the sharing of gifts, skills, and friends with their families, other Special Olympians, and the community.

Through successful experiences in sports, Olympians gain confidence and build a positive self-image that carries over into the classroom, the home, the job, and the community.

Athletes may contact Mrs. Lamey at (228) 822-0123 or Ms. Johnson 228-688-3681 to obtain additional information and the necessary paperwork.

This year's event is coordinated by the National Atmospheric and Space Administration.

The Diamondhead Business and Professional Association will meet Thursday at 8 a.m. in the Diamondhead Country Club.

The guest speaker will be Barr McClellan, author of the new book, "Blood Money & Power," based on the John F. Kennedy assassination. McClellan is a resident of Gulfport. His son works in the Bush administration. He will have copies of his book on hand.

Federal jobless program expires

A federal program providing additional unemployment benefits for Mississippi's long-term unemployed has ended but not before paying them more than $100 million in benefits.

The two-year program known as Temporary Emergency Unemployment Compensation (TEUC) ended Dec. 27. The 13-week extension still applies to those who had an active TEUC claim on Dec. 27.

The program paid additional weeks of benefits to 39,100 Mississippians in 2002 and to more than 32,000 unemployed workers in 2003. In 2002 $52.3 million was paid to them, and in 2003 $48.2 million was paid.

TEUC provided up to 13 additional weeks of benefits to unemployed workers after they had received 26 weeks of regular unemployment. The program is over for those filing first-time claims for unemployment.

In most cases the additional money helped families buy the staples - food, clothing and shelter.

The U.S. Congress passed the TEUC program in March 2002 to bolster the economy after September 11. The program was set to expire in May but economic conditions led to Congress extending the ending date to the end of the year.

TEUC payments are paid by the federal government and do not come from Mississippi's unemployment trust fund.

Award winner

Rex E. Kelly, Director of Corporate Communications at Mississippi Power Company presents the 2004 Professional Achievement Award named in his honor to Terry Hines Smith of the U.S. EPA's Gulf of Mexico Program at Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis, Miss. The award is presented annually by the Mississippi Beach Chapter of the Public Relations Association of Mississippi to a member who has enhanced the role of public relations and demonstrated a high level of professionalism and leadership. Smith, a graduate of Auburn University at Montgomery, is now a candidate for the state level Professional Achievement Award which will be given out March 26 in Jackson, at the PRAM State Conference entitled "The Power of PR."

Smith honored by PR group

Terry Hines Smith, APR, the public affairs specialist for EPA's Gulf of Mexico Program at the John C. Stennis Space Center, was recognized Monday by the Mississippi Beach Chapter of the Public Relations Association of Mississippi for her professionalism and for her efforts in enhancing the role of the public relations practitioner.

Smith was awarded the chapter's top honor -- the Rex E. Kelly Professional Achievement Award. The chapter established the award in 2001 to honor and recognize founding member Rex Kelly who is the Director of Corporate Communications at Mississippi Power Company. Smith is the third member besides Kelly to receive the award. Smith joined the chapter in 1997 when she moved to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

"This award means so much to me," said Smith. "I can't think of any higher honor than to be recognized by your professional peers. The award is even more meaningful since it is named after someone I so highly respect. Rex sets the bar very high and the rest of us try to reach his standards."

Smith's responsibilities include public relations and communications for an organization with an approach to environmental protection that emphasizes community-based, ecosystem management. The Gulf of Mexico Program facilitates the protection and restoration of the coastal marine waters of the Gulf of Mexico and its coastal natural habitats, and seeks to sustain living resources; protect human health and the food supply; and ensure the recreational use of Gulf shores, beaches, and waters in ways consistent with the economic well-being of the region, through a network of citizens and institutions.

Smith's family is from New Albany, Miss. She was born at Ft. McPherson Army Post in Atlanta, and grew up mainly in Huntsville and Montgomery, Alabama. Smith received a bachelor's degree in Communications from Auburn University. She is an honor graduate of the Public Affairs Officer Course at the Defense Information School and a graduate of Air University's Squadron Officer School. Smith was Accredited in Public Relations in 2001 and was recently asked to serve on the Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce's Communications Committee. She is a past president of the Mississippi Beach Chapter of PRAM and currently serves at the state level as Vice President of Programs.

As the recipient of the chapter's Rex Kelly Professional Achievement Award, Smith is now one of the candidates for the Public Relations Association of Mississippi's state level Professional Achievement Award which will be announced March 26 in Jackson at the state conference, "The Power of PR."

Coast Guard, DMR to host Commercial Fishing Safety Fair

The Coast Guard, in cooperation with the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR) and the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), is scheduled to sponsor a commercial fishing safety fair at the Pass Christian Harbor, Miss., on Jan. 27 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Commercial fishing has been identified as one of the most dangerous occupations in America. The goal of the fair is to provide fishermen with information not only to make them safer as they ply their trade, but also to keep them legal. This will be accomplished through a variety of demonstrations and activities.

One of the more interesting demonstrations is the damage control trainer. This device gives fishermen the opportunity to try their hand at effecting emergency repairs should their vessel start taking on water. The damage control trainer uses water pressure to simulate a ruptured pipe or hole in the hull. Rain suits will be provided to those brave enough for this undertaking. Fishermen will also be given the opportunity to fire flares just like the ones they are required to carry on their boats. Representatives from Coast Guard Marine Safety Offices Mobile and New Orleans will be on hand to test emergency position indicating radio beacons. EPIRBs are devices that can send a distress signal to satellites, giving rescuers a pinpoint location and other critical information about the boat. There will be static displays of all the equipment required on commercial fishing boats and representatives to answer any questions related to the equipment.

The Coast Guard will have four fishing vessel examiners available to conduct free courtesy inspections both during and after the fair. The Eighth Coast Guard District's Commercial Fishing Vessel Safety Coordinator, Michael White, emphasizes the importance of these inspections on two fronts. "First, they give the fishermen the opportunity to discuss at length safety equipment requirements and safety procedures with the inspectors. Secondly, once the boat has passed the inspection, it is awarded a decal to be displayed on the exterior of the boat."

"Earning the decal brings important benefits to our fishermen. If the boat is kept in the condition that it was in when it was awarded the decal, it is a guarantee that the fishermen will not get a ticket for safety equipment issues," says Petty Officer 1st Class Paul Barnard from Coast Guard Station Gulfport, Miss. "If we are patrolling a fleet of fishing boats we will board those boats without decals before we board those with them."

Both the state and federal government have a role in regulating fisheries. Experts from DMR and NMFS will be available throughout the fair to answer any state or federal law specific questions or inspect any fishing gear for compliance. A Vietnamese translator will be in attendance to assist with any language barriers.

Local merchants have teamed with the government agencies to provide door prizes to be given to the attendees. The prizes will include offshore and inshore turtle excluder devices, flares, life jackets and other assorted safety equipment.

The public is invited to attend and the fishing community is urged to participate. "This could literally be a life saving experience for our mariners," said White. "Couple that with a guarantee of not getting a fine and you have definite win-win situation for the fishermen." This is an outdoor event and will be postponed if poor weather is forecast. Call Coast Guard Station Gulfport at (228) 868-3743 with any questions.

Ordinance

to chair this committee and we held regular meetings through April 1998.

I can certainly agree with Miss deMontluzin that Charleston is a beautiful place for tourists. Their preservation ordinance is one of the oldest in the nation. I have not read it, but if it is too strict, as she asserts, then those owners affected should vote to have it changed.

Our ordinance was not patterned after Charleston or any other out-of-state city.

It was patterned after those of 35 cities in Mississippi who currently have successful working preservation ordinances. Additionally, the Department of Archives and History has published up-dates in wording and context which have been incorporated in this ordinance.

She further states, "The preservation ordinance for Bay St. Louis hasn't even been written yet."

Wrong, very wrong. It was written seven years ago and has been continually studied and improved by subsequently appointed committees, the Bay Saint Louis City Council and with the assistance of the Department of Archives and History.

I do not know the answer to her hypothetical question about what the Englishman John Locke might think, but I think that the Founding Fathers would approve the establishment of laws to protect the rights of property owners to insure reasonable compliance with the standards of the community.

Had she researched this ordinance by contacting City Hall, the Preservation Ordinance Advisory Committee or the Hancock County Historical Society for a copy, her wideranging fears could have been allayed.

To wit: "The line of demarcation" will be drawn by the City Council exactly as it is now; There are absolutely no color restrictions in the ordinance; It is recommended that repairs be made with in-kind materials but there is a hardship clause if these are not available or are unreasonably expensive; aluminum siding is not recommended on older homes because it causes rot beneath the surface; It recommends that carports be of compatible design with the building; mailbox designs are controlled by the U.S. Postal Service, not the Preservation Commission. Flagpole?

Owners can put a racoon on a flagpole if they wish. Good taste cannot be legislated. Tool sheds and any other outbuildings presently allowed by the city building code face absolutely no restrictions not presently imposed other than that they be compatible with the building and community. Large metal buildings in the front of historic properties would assuredly face opposition.

As for concerns about the Commission itself: "The members of the Commission are appointed by the city and shall serve at the will and pleasure of the city. The Commission shall consist of seven members who are residents of Bay Saint Louis. All members of the Commission shall serve for terms established by the city and shall be eligible for reappointment. All Commission members shall have a demonstrated knowledge of or interest, competence, or expertise in historic preservation."

Rigid specifications must be met in advertising for, and applying for, one of these positions and ultimately, as now, the responsibility rests with the city council.

Citizens of the Bay who may be lucky enough to have their properties eventually protected by this ordinance, please urge your Councilman to vote for it.

As a beachfront homeowner, I have tried to see that this ordinance was designed for the protection of the individual homeowner and I assure you, I feel it is in our best interest. Properties across the Coast, which have such protection, average 1/3 to 2/3's more value upon resale.

Sincerely,
Charles H. Gray

Radio Reading Service offers readings for Mississippi's blind

Hancock library branches assist with applications

Mississippi residents who are visually impaired, or have "lost their ability to manage print" can now keep up with their favorite newspapers and magazines through a special subcarrier channel by the Radio Reading Service of Mississippi, a division of Public Radio in Mississippi.

The 24-hour, 7-day-a-week channel is available free of charge to qualified applicants. Applications are now available at any of the four branches of the Hancock County Library System: Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, Kiln Public Library, Pearlinton Public Library and Waveland Public Library.

The unit is a table-sized radio that is pre-tuned to the reading service channel, and includes a decoder that unscrambles the transmission from PRM frequencies throughout the state.

Weekday mornings begin with hour-long readings of The New York Times and the Wall Street Journal. The Sun Herald and the Commercial Appeal are also read, along with the comics from the previous Sunday's Clarion Ledger in Jackson. Magazines, such as Southern Living, best-selling books and even the Bible are read over the Radio Reading Service channel.

"We have volunteers that come to the recording studio to record their readings for the channel," said Mike Duke, the service's director who has himself been blind since birth.

"Occasionally, Mississippi authors drop by the studio to read their own books. The late Eudora Welty was one of the first such authors when the service began in the mid 1980's."

The Radio Reading Service currently has distributed approximately 3,800 radio units throughout the state including about 350 in South Mississippi.

To obtain a reading service radio application, simply drop by the library system branch nearest you.

More information on the program is available by calling the Radio Reading Service at (601) 432-5301, or (800) 472-2580.

Martin Luther King Day Quotes

The following selected quotations are from Martin Luther King. They give the reader some understanding of the man which this national holiday of the United States of America celebrates. All quotes are from online The Martin Luther King Jr. Papers Project at Stanford University.

Education
I said to my children, "I'm going to work and do everything that I can do to see that you get a good education. I don't ever want you to forget that there are millions of God's children who will not and cannot get a good education, and I don't want you feeling that you are better than they are. For you will never be what you ought to be until they are what they ought to be."
-- Martin Luther King, Jr., 7th January, 1968

Nonviolence
Nonviolence is absolute commitment to the way of love. Love is not emotional bash; it is not empty sentimentalism. It is the active outpouring of one's whole being into the being of another.
-- Martin Luther King, Jr., 1957
I cannot make myself believe that God wanted me to hate. I'm tired of violence. I've seen too much of it. I'm not going to let my oppressor dictate to me what method I must use. Our oppressors have used violence. Our oppressors have used hatred. Our oppressors have used rifles and guns. I'm not going to stoop down to their level. We have a power that can't be found in Molotov cocktails.

Reconciliation
The method of nonviolence seeks not to humiliate and not to defeat the oppressor, but it seeks to win his friendship and his understanding. And thereby and therefore the aftermath of this method is reconciliation.
-- Martin Luther King, Jr., 1956

Social Justice
Love is creative and redemptive. Love builds up and unites, hate tears down and destroys. The aftermath of the "fight with fire" method which you suggest is bitterness and chaos, the aftermath of the love method is reconciliation and creation of the beloved community. Physical force can repress, restrain, coerce, destroy, but it cannot create and organize anything permanently; only love can do that. Yes, love—which means understanding, creative, redemptive goodwill, even for one's enemies.
-- Martin Luther King, Jr., 1957

Social Transformation
I must confess that I have enjoyed being on this mountaintop and I am tempted to want to stay here and retreat to a more quiet and serene life. But something within reminds me that the valley calls me in spite of all its agonies, dangers, and frustrating moments. I must return to the valley. Something tells me that the ultimate test of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and moments of convenience, but where he stands in moments of challenge and moments of controversy.
-- Martin Luther King, Jr., 27th January, 1965

Nonviolence
Nonviolence is not sterile passivity, but a powerful moral force which makes for social transformation.
-- Martin Luther King, Jr., 1968
We have thrown into an era where we are called upon to raise certain basic questions about the whole society. We are still called upon to give aid to the beggar who finds himself in misery and agony on life's highway. But one day, we must ask the question of whether an edifice which produces beggars must not be restructured and refurbished.

"Solving problems and seizing opportunities require team work." Speaker McCoy gave out committee assignments to those of us in the House of Representatives. The committees will begin work in earnest to consider the bills and constitutional amendments proposed by the 174 members of the Legislature (122 House members, 52 Senate).

Traditionally, about 3,000 proposals are submitted annually for members to consider. Feb. 23 is the deadline for the introduction of bills and constitutional amendments. March 9 is the deadline for House and Senate committees to approve or reject the proposals originating in our own chamber.

The first House panel to meet was the Select Committee on Access and Affordability of Medical Malpractice Insurance. The group will analyze the malpractice insurance market in the state and recommend ways to make it more affordable and more accessible to Mississippi's 4,600 physicians and other health-care providers.

Fiscal experts on Jan.

15 briefed us on how the state and national economies are faring. State Tax Commissioner Ed Buelow expressed disappointment over holiday sales, calling sales tax collections the "main revenue factor" in determining how much the Legislature can appropriate. State Economist Phil Pepper gave us a somewhat brighter outlook, noting state employment numbers increased in November 2003 and forecasting a "gradual upturn" in the economy. State Treasurer Tate Reeves told us the state's total bonded indebtedness was $3.166 billion as of Dec. 31, 2003. The Legislative Budget Committee has recommended we appropriate $173.3 million toward that debt for FY 2005, which would be 4.9 percent of all General Fund appropriations.

We in the House of Representatives are always eager to hear from our constituents. You can reach us by calling the Capitol at 601-359-3770. You can follow activities of the Legislature on the Internet at www.ls.state.ms.us.

"The search warrant was served at Bay Park Apartments, a place Laneaux was staying with his girl friend. Laneaux was not at the residence, but turned himself in later in the day at the sheriff's office," Karl added.

Karl continued, "We have been gathering information on the suspect for several months, as we felt he was dealing in drugs. With information received on Thursday, plus prior information, a search warrant was secured for the apartment residence. Approximately one-half ounce of crack cocaine in addition to a hand gun was found."

"Tanya Booth, 22, a girl friend of Laneaux was charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent and bonded out on a $25,000 bond. She was not at home, but was summoned at her job and returned to her residence," Karl added.

The case is still under investigation and Agent Clifton (Bubba) Malley is in charge.

Officers serving the search warrant included; Karl, Malley, Agents Chris Russell and Johnny Alison, CNET Agent Abe Long and another CNET agent, in addition to assistance from Deputy Lt. Danny Gilkerson.

on Frickie Road, followed by another 911 call from Courtney Davis, a 17-year-old sister of the young boy, who had crawled out a window of the burning smoke filled structure. Hurt's report said.

Reserve Deputy John Bunce along with volunteer fire fighters John Favaloro and Alvin Skinner, upon arrival at the 9066 Frickie Road address pulled the mother and son unconscious from the structure, according to the report.

Deputy Bunce was taken by Ronnie Cuevas, Sheriff's Chief Administrative Officer to Hancock Medical Center.

Cuevas said he was treated for smoke inhalation, as he had a high level of carbon in his system.

Bunce was released later in the day from HMC. Also among the first responders to the fire scene was Waveland Patrol Officer Theresa Beeson. Hurt said the County Fire Investigator Brian Adam and State Fire Marshall David Dry have been called to investigate the cause of the fire.

standing tradition in many areas of the country and includes such thoroughfares as the River Road Scenic Byway and the Creole Nature Trail in Louisiana and the Natchez/Trace Parkway in Mississippi.

The Hancock County Greenways Project is heading up the application process for the county. Greenways advocate Sue Chamberlain said the designation can bring in dollars for improvements to recreational facilities and other projects along the route. The road would designated as a scenic route.

The program requires the county to come up with a corridor management plan "for the purposes of maintaining the intrinsic qualities of the byway and providing accommodation of increased tourism and development of related amenities."

Maintenance fund dollars, according to state code may be used to develop this plan, to make safety improvements to accommodate increased traffic, to construct facilities for use by pedestrians and bicyclists, rest areas, turnouts, passing lanes, shoulder improvements, overlooks and more. The funds may also be used to provide tourist information and for marketing programs.

Administration of the program is the responsibility of a committee consisting of the MS Department of Transportation, the MS Development Authority, Division of Tourism, the Keep MS Beautiful/People Against Litter Assoc., the MS Assoc. of Supervisors, the MS Outdoor Advertising Assoc., the MS Retail Assoc., the MS Tourism Assoc., the MS Municipal League, and The MS Transportation Commission.

A management plan could put some restrictions on signs, obstruction of views and impose other conditions. Chamberlain said her group does not plan add any added restrictions or requirements in the plan other than what is already in force locally.

She can't say whether that will satisfy the state committee.

If you are interested in viewing the proposed corridor management plan or voicing your opinion on the project, next Thursday's public hearing will be the place to be.

PRCC -- new campus

County Chamber Education Committee Chairman Dr. Sherry Ponder, Community Education Director Gaynell Roberts, Dr. William Lewis

President of the Pearl River Community College, and others for years now," said District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman, who confirmed that the new campus is a reality for the county.

"I think that I can speak for everyone involved in saying that we all believe that this is a positive step for our county," said Pullman. "We want to make sure that the youth of our county have access to the training they need to get the jobs that are offered at Stennis Space Center or Port Bienville. If we don't have the training, we won't get the jobs. And it will allow our children to begin college without having to drive all the way to Poplarville."

Pullman said that though supervisors want to be team players in the effort to get things going, they will leave the actual planning of the campus, the staffing and the classes to the people who are the experts, the college itself.

"I'm sure they will make the right decisions involving all the particulars," he said. "We understand that we must move slowly ... the important thing is to establish a presence in the county. We want this first step to be just the beginning of what is to come."

Dr. Sherry Ponder stated, "This is great news. I'm sure PRCC is planning a more formal announcement with details in a few weeks."

"We would not be having this discussion if not for the leadership and vision of Rocky Pullman and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors," Ponder said.

The proposed site of the campus is the old Wal-Mart building on Hwy. 90 in Waveland, but Pullman said this location has not yet been confirmed, though talks are underway to try to make it a reality. Just when the campus will open is not yet confirmed either, though Pullman said he thought that a May time-frame was a likely guess for the project to be under way.

Pearl River College officials were unavailable for comment as of press time Saturday.

DMR Stormwater Toolbox is now available online

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources' (DMR) Comprehensive Resource Management Plan's (CRMP) Mississippi Gulf Coast Stormwater Management Toolbox is now available online. Web surfers can download this valuable guide to assist them in complying with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's new stormwater management regulations.

Coast cities and counties filed their stormwater management plans with the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality in March 2003.

Cities in the three Coast counties are in the process of implementing their plans. The Stormwater Toolbox, a two-volume guide distributed at the CRMP's October meeting, is a source of information on pollution prevention, vendors and products, best management practices and examples of how to educate the general public.

To download the Stormwater Toolbox, go to www.dmr.state.ms.us <<http://www.dmr.state.ms.us>

"The Stormwater Toolbox is a comprehensive guide for officials to use while implementing their stormwater plans," said Marcia Garcia, a staff officer with DMR's CRMP. "It's a valuable tool with a wealth of information."

By putting it on the Web this winter, city and county leaders will have these helpful guidelines at their fingertips."

The toolbox was produced by the DMR/CRMP through funding from the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality, which administers the Mississippi Coastal Impact Assistance Program (CIAP). CIAP is a federally sponsored program that provides money for the state and counties to address issues that relate to the coastal environment and ecology.

Rockin' the Boat

Kopcsó gets some friendly ribbing from his fellow SEALs.

Stennis Space Center's Navy SEALs send off their chief in style

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Roars of laughter filled the area along the banks of the Pearl River on Friday at the official retirement ceremony for Master Chief Engineman SEAL Kenny Kopcsó of Special Boat Unit 22 based at Stennis Space Center. After 21 years of service in the United States Navy, Kopcsó went out as he served, with humor. The ceremony was held outside the Rouchon House. Kopcsó and other officers arrived at the ceremony by boats commandeered by members of SBU 22.

Kopcsó and the audience laughed as his colleagues told story after story of the antics they remembered during their service with a man who made it fun to come to work. None let him forget his Louisiana roots that gave him the foundation for his backwoods skills and awesome marksmanship, they said, both useful tools in his service as a SEAL. Kenny could operate a shotgun quicker than most men could operate an automatic weapon, said one speaker.

Kopcsó began his career as a SEAL because, he told a colleague, he was interested in diving and wanted to be the kind of a diver who jumped out of planes and shot guns. He attended boot camp at Great Lakes, where he went through BUDs training, 120 hours of round the clock training, with very little sleep.

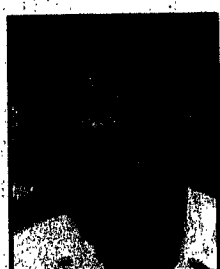

After boot camp he served on Seal Delivery Team Two for three years. He went on to serve with the Warfare Development Group and the Naval Special Warfare Group, then on to serve with Special Boat Unit 20, finally coming to Mississippi to serve as Master Chief for Special Boat Unit 22.

Kopcsó spoke only briefly, giving credit for the success of his service to the team work of his Navy family and to the what he said was the main team member who held it all together, his wife Robin. Boats returned to give a brief demonstration of riverine combat and deliver Kopcsó to his reception.

'A Message to Garcia' may not be the world's best example of labor relations

I wonder how many of us were brought up with the editorial, "A Message to Garcia," ingrained as a guide to how we should lead our lives. Written by Elbert Hubbard in 1899, the editorial used an incident in the Spanish American War as its basis. The editorial has an amazing history and its influence on thousands is staggering.

the editorial was copied and printed in a dozen languages including Russian, Turkish and Japanese. Millions on millions of the essay were printed in a flurry that may well have exceeded "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

The editorial lasted and lasted and even I and a million other kids of my much, much, later generation were raised up on it.

copy recently and read it again with more mature eyes. It's a little long, but let me give you the first part and you will get the gist of the entire Hubbard editorial:

"In all this Cuban business there is one man who stands out on the horizon of my memory like Mars at perihelion.

"When war broke out between Spain and the United States it was very necessary to communicate quickly with the leader of the Insurgents. Garcia was somewhere in the mountain vastness of Cuba - no one knew where. No mail nor telegraph message could reach him. The President must secure his cooperation, and quickly. What to do!

"Some one said to the President, 'There's a fellow by the name of Rowan will find Garcia for you, if anybody can.'

"Rowan was sent for and given a letter to be delivered to Garcia. How the fellow by the name of Rowan took the letter, sealed it up in an oil-skin pouch, strapped it over his heart, in four days landed by night off the coast of Cuba from an open boat, disappeared into the jungle, and in three weeks came out on the other side of the island, having traversed a hostile country on foot, and delivered his letter to Garcia - are things I have no special desire now to tell in detail. The point that I wish to make is this: McKinley gave Rowan a letter to be delivered to Garcia; Rowan took the letter and did not ask, 'Where is he at?'

"By the Eternal! there is a man whose form should be cast in deathless bronze and the statue placed in every college of the land. It is not book-learning young men need, nor instruction about this and that, but a stiffening of the vertebrae which will cause them to be loyal to a trust, to act promptly, concentrate their energies: do the thing. (Carry a message to Garcia!)

"General Garcia is dead now, but there are other Garcias. No man who has endeavored to carry out an enterprise where many hands were needed, but has been well-nigh appalled at times by the imbecility of the average man - the inability or unwillingness to concentrate on a thing and do it.

"Slipshod assistance, foolish inattention, dowdy indifference, and half-hearted work seem the rule; and no man succeeds, unless by hook or crook or threat he forces or bribes other men to assist him; or mayhap, God in His goodness performs a miracle, and sends him an Angel of Light for an assistant.

"You, reader, put this matter to a test: You are sitting now in your office - six clerks are within call. Summon any one and make this request: 'Please look in the encyclopedia and make a brief memorandum for me concerning the life of Correggio.' Will the clerk quietly say, 'Yes, sir,' and go do the task?

"On your life, he will not. He will look at you out of a fishy eye and ask one or more of the following questions: Who was he? Which encyclopedia? Where is the encyclopedia? Was I hired for that? Don't you mean Bismarck? What's the matter with Charlie doing it? Is he dead? Is there any hurry?

"Shan't I bring you the book and let you look it up yourself? What do you want to know for?

"And I will lay you ten to one that after you have answered the questions, and explained how to find the information, and why you want it, the clerk will go off and get one of the other clerks to help him try to find Correggio - and then come back and tell you there is no such man. Of course I may lose my bet, but according to the Law of Average, I will not."

There is more, but it's more of the same. Remember, all this was written in 1899. Its almost instantaneous popularity when it was written is to me very disturbing. The fact that it was translated and distributed in so many countries says something about the times. If nothing else, it says something about business-labor relationship at the turn of the last century.

It must have been pretty dismal.

Did Hubbard really think so little of his employees? And if he did, how could he expect them to think anything less of him?

Why was he surprised by the apparent stupidity or sloven actions of people he considered underlings? Did other bosses of the time have a similar mindset? Shades of Ebenezer Scrooge.

Good lord, if I gave someone an important package for anyone and he walked out the door without at least asking, "Where is he at?"

I would have given up any hope of it being delivered.

Detailed instructions may not have been called for, but some small amount of rudimentary instructions was. To be truthful, I don't believe Hubbard's description of what happened was really the case. I think it just furnished a good vehicle for his ungracious tirade.

The disturbing thing was that the editorial was so popular. Copies were printed by the heads of companies, railroads, the Russian and Japanese armies, school principals and forced to the masses. My period of being a member of the work force was a long time later, but I remember having been assigned Hubbard's vitriolic opus as required reading in high school (I was also given Kipling's poem "If," which I think is the better of the two; stiff upper lip, backbone, manhood and stuff).

I must have been a poor reader. Because my reading it today evokes different emotions than it did years ago.

What I got out of Hubbard's essay years ago did not have anything to do with what he had written and, luckily, I think that many people of my time line got out of it the same thing: A strong work ethic, a pride in what you were doing and an allegiance to the person paying my salary and a reciprocal expectation of the same from my employer. Fundamentally, I believed, and still do, that an honest compassionate boss usually gets an honest, compassionate employee.

Sorry about all this. I just had to get it off my chest. I feel a lot better now. (Oh, yes. Antonio Allegri da Correggio was a painter of a number of very beautiful Italian Renaissance frescos. I didn't know. I looked it up. No problem.)

Drive to Succeed

Local schools' food drive benefits Hancock Pantry

In December 2003, the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Food Service and the Hancock County School Food Service sponsored a food drive for the local food pantry. This combined effort of the two districts collected 8 boxes of food. Sharon Ladner, local president of the Magnolia Gems Chapter and Kathy Zinc delivered the boxes to the food pantry on December 18, 2003.

Mr. and Miss Pearl River Community College Curtis Cornelius Hayes and Katie Lange Fillingame.

Fillingame, Hayes elected Mr. and Miss PRCC

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Sophomores Katie Lange Fillingame of Bay St. Louis and Curtis Cornelius Hayes of Hattiesburg are Mr. and Miss Pearl River Community College for the 2003-04 school year following recent elections held on campus. Fillingame, 19, is a pre-pharmacy major at PRCC. She was a member of PRCC's soccer team, which finished runner up in the state tournament last fall. She was also a freshman class favorite, sophomore homecoming maid and diamond girl. She plans to further her education in pharmacy at the University of Mississippi.

"I have enjoyed the friendships I have made here at Pearl River," said Fillingame. "PRCC is big enough for a quality education, but small enough to feel right at home."

Hayes, 20, is a graduate of Hattiesburg High School and a general studies major at PRCC. He was a member of PRCC's 2003 state championship football team. As a sophomore, he earned first-team All-MACJC honors as a running back. He also played in the MACJC All-Star Classic in December. Hayes, the son of Alberta Hayes, has not decided where to further his education.

"Pearl River was a good place for me to start my career," said Hayes. "I will always remember the good times we had on the football field."

St. Clare celebrates 40th

Saint Clare School in Waveland celebrated its 40th anniversary with a mass celebrated by Bishop Thomas Rodi and Msgr. McGough. Saint Clare was founded in 1964 by the Dominican Sisters, and was destroyed by Hurricane Camille in 1969. Within five weeks after Camille, students were attending classes in tents set up by the National Guard and the Red Cross. Sister Ruth, the first principal of Saint Clare, Sister Mary, Sister Carmelite and Sister Angeline honored the students and staff with their presence at the mass. Also in attendance were Linda Calamari Armagnac and Micheline Lenfant Pernicaro, representatives of the first graduating class of Saint Clare. A reception and an extended recess followed the Bishops visit who then took time to visit with each classroom. Mr. Mark Cumella, St. Clare principal, presented Bishop Rodi a yellow rose plant to help him always remember St. Clare School and students.

Christmas in April project seeks volunteers, donations

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Materials are being gathered and volunteers are lining up for this year's annual Christmas in April Hancock County Project set for April 24th. But volunteers and donations are still needed.

The project is a one-day blitz to rehabilitate/renovate the home of an elderly, handicapped or disabled person within our community.

"To date the project has touched over 88 families in Hancock County," said chairperson Judy Reeves, "and we hope to reach even more this year."

Because this is a non-profit organization, donations are needed to fund the project. "Local businesses and residents have been very generous this with their donations," said co-chair Maurice Singleton, "but we are still in need of funding and supplies."

Of course nothing could be accomplished without volunteers - the mainstay of the project.

Last year more than 200 people volunteered to scrape, paint, rake, mow, rebuild and generally do whatever needed to be done to six homes. "Everyone was tired and dirty at the end of the day," said Reeves, "but it was a good kind of tired."

To volunteer or to donate materials or funds, please contact Judy Reeves at 228-467-5044. Margaret Hadden at 228-467-1082. Donations can be mailed to Christmas in April, Hancock County Project, Post Office Box 483, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Diamondhead Boaters Assoc. coronates Mardi Gras royalty

Diamondhead Boaters Association presented its annual Coronation Ball on January 4, 2004 at the Diamondhead Country Club. Master of Ceremonies Don Kraemer welcomed members and guests and recognized Alii Honua XXIX Ed Gross and his Queen, Arta Allen, this year's land royalty.

To the tune of "Bourbon Street Parade," the Board of Directors and their spouses handed out beads to the members. King Akua Kai XXIX Jim Frisina, and his Queen, Marcia Frisina, made one last promenade around the ballroom to the strains of "If Ever I Cease to Love."

After all were seated, Queen Marcia announced the recipient of the Dolphin Award, which goes to the individual who has gone above and beyond the call of duty working for a better Boaters Association. Lady Yvonne Luck was the honored award winner this year. Previous recipients in attendance were Lady Nina Wallace, Lord Larry Smith, Lord Jack Klein, and Lord Bob Marshall. The monarchs then awaited the entrance of King Akua Kai

XXX-elect Bob Valigosky and his lovely Queen-elect, Jamie Valigosky. After Bob and Jamie were crowned, toasts were made all around. Queen Jamie was regally attired in a gold silk halter-top evening dress encrusted with pearls and beads. King Bob was resplendent in full tails.

"A Royal Celebration of American Freedom" was the theme for this year's ball, and the stage and tables were elegantly decorated in red, white, blue, and silver.

Commodore Kathy Wood presented the engraved goblets to the new monarchs from the Krewe. Vice Commodore Bob Gonzalez presented the royal colors. Regina-in-charge, Audrey Ramirez, presented Alii medallions. A symbol of royalty, the medallion is worn at all Carnival functions and Alii affairs.

The new court of 2004 was introduced: Lady in Waiting Phil Gillen, Equerry Jerry Gillen, Maids and Dukes, Vera and Harry Lacoste, Doris Gendusa and Chuck Ingraham, and Maureen Holt and Glenn Chaffee. King Bob and Queen Jamie, as new royalty, danced their first dance to the tune of "It Had to Be You." Past royalty, members and invited guests were then asked to join the King and Queen. After a gourmet dinner, the King Cake with our traditional "baby" was paraded around the room before being served to a capacity crowd. The band Prime Time had the revelers hoppin' & boppin' and second lining. Special thanks to our Ball Chairperson, Lady Yvonne Luck, Kitty Gregoire for decorations, Crystal Fritzsching for seating, Bob Gonzalez for his work with the music, and of course to our very own Don Kraemer as MC.

Foul language, foul relations

"Happy New Year!"

is just a faint echo with loud firecrackers in the background for most people around the world. The trailing edge of the joyful Christmas season, the goodwill of the New Year tops off annual nostalgia.

However, that same goodwill sours overnight in so many instances that the good wishes of the New Year seem to be an exercise in futility, little more than a perfunctory, automatic, reflex reaction to a turn of dates.

Perhaps the worst telltale sign of this perennial funk is the dead opposite of well-wishing and blessing: ill-wishing, cursing. Sadly, when we take stock of the relative frequency between well-wishing/blessing and ill-wishing/cursing, the latter comes out far ahead on the tongues of many.

It is very encouraging to hear "Good morning," "Have a good day," "Good afternoon," "Good evening," and "Good Night" spoken often and with an air of sincerity by most of the people in our environment.

On the other hand, it is discouraging to hear the static, cacophony and ugliness of sour words, curses, profanities and obscenities which fill the air and the airwaves all around us. If we could only hear as much well-wishing!

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

The most distressing thing about what might be characterized as "sick speech" is that it is being sponged up and learned by the very young, even small children who retain all lyrics, including the dirty ones.

No matter how much dirty gangsta rap artists hide behind their First Amendment rights and the "reality" they offer, they remain the deadliest influence bar none on the tender, impressionable minds of our youth.

The spongy minds of our youngest seldom retain well the substance of their academic studies, but their near neurotic interest in dirty rap motivates them powerfully to remember every word, every nuance of the spicy rap.

Inexplicably, this is the very type of dangerous communication which the media of every kind encourage and promote, while they just as forcibly push aside and ignore any communication which brings God into the picture.

Although dirty rap artists purport to present "reality" to the world at large, what they actually succeed in doing is drill the young in the diabolical art of ill-wishing, cursing and profaning mothers, sex and all that is good.

First Amendment vigilantes are presenting us with a most distressing menu of the verbal treats we should be allowed to enjoy on public radio, television, in the printed media and in any public utterances at any venue.

According to those vigilantes, a simple rule of thumb tells us that God is always a welcome part of public discussion as long as God is relegated to obscurity away from public prayer, government and education.

By the same rule of thumb, God is a no-no for saying anything good, any well-wishing, anything moral, anything disciplinary, anything which might be a positive guideline for any civic, political or educational body.

To our extreme dismay, just as unwelcome as God is, so very welcome are the death-dealing merchants of filthy gangsta rap, sporting the worst cursing, epithets, profanities and obscenities our imaginations can muster.

It has become an electronic game of dodgeball to duck the numerous episodes of cursing, profanities and obscenities on TV and radio. Yet, these and worse are welcome in lieu of God and anything pertaining to God.

The one saving factor of the First Amendment vigilantes is that the inordinate amount of energy they exert in banishing God from the media is in effect keeping God in the limelight and the forefront of discussions.

Yes, they are accomplishing the opposite of what they are hell-bent on doing.

Playing hide-and-seek with these unholy media invasions of all that is good in us is something we can succeed at with much annoyance. But boom boxes and booming car radios are an annoying problem harder to shake.

Tracking back over all the people I have known in my whole life, I find a disturbing, damning correlation between bad human relationships and people who habitually curse and use obscenities and profanities. What is so striking about this reflection is my personal revulsion and uncomfortable reaction.

As I contemplate each individual whom I have known, I recall a distinct closeness to those with governed, uplifting speech habits, and just as sharp a discomfort with those whose speech was laced with curses and ill-wishing.

Well-wishing, a direct translation of benevolence (two Latin words), the highest form of love which we equate to God, is the simplest, most easily understood and most meaningful way of saying, "I love you." And, remember, "Happy New Year!" is every day, because every day is a New Year, since days do not know or recognize any calendar. Every day is a day of thanksgiving and an opportunity for well-wishing and rejoicing.

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

In these verses it was clearly brought out that the gift of handling money by these servants was to be wisely invested.

This parable is telling us that we should not only be wise in what we do with the money that's in trusted to us; but if we do nothing worth while with God's money; we could face a harsh judgment. Unfortunately most church people are unaware of this.

Most of us just out right hate to part with our money. We will give to charity and missionaries and the local church. We assume that's enough. How much is enough?

Nevertheless, this writer also believes that this parable is deeper, than how we handle God's money.

The good and faithful servants had a heart to please God. The slothful servants were not wise and were complacent.

Money has a way of saying a lot about a person; where their priorities are.

God doesn't need our money. He does however expect obedience as a life that reflects holiness of character.

In this parable the faithful servants received a reward for their service to God and His kingdom. The slothful servants received a harsh judgment.

God pays attention to what we do, and not do for Him. He has a set of books with our name written in there. He's a very good bookkeeper.

The "Word" for the Week
Heaven and earth and hell

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

One of the things children need most is a boundary. Children have a sense of security if they are given certain well-defined limits. They realize that their parents love them if they are told to stay within those bounds. Inside those boundaries they are safe. Outside, they get into trouble.

A good example is found in the casual outlook on sex which is promoted so widely. When children are taught that sex outside of marriage is the proper thing, they really do listen. Especially if they are taught that this is what God expects from them.

Those young people, who step across this line, may find themselves with an unwanted pregnancy or the horrible consequence of AIDS. Abstaining from sex outside of marriage is good advice. But some people insist that such thinking is too narrow. So be it!

Isn't the narrow way the best way? Listen to what Jesus Christ says, "Enter by the narrow gate; for the gate is wide, and the way is broad that leads to destruction, and many are those who enter by it. For the gate is small, and the way is narrow that leads to life, and few are those who find it" (Matthew 7:13-14).

The point is, that crossing over the line will catch up with you! While you live on this earth you have tremendous opportunities. You can plunge down the broad road, which challenges and breaks all the rules of right and wrong. But sooner or later you will pay.

In eternity you will pay in a big way! Or we can follow Jesus Christ down the narrow road. This is the road where you trust His life to save your own. You dedicated yourself to keeping His commandments. Yes, it is a narrow road. But in the end, the rewards are big and eternal.

Rotary supports BSLLT renovation efforts

Members of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club pledged their support of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre during their regular Tuesday meeting.

Claire Haun, a BSLLT board member, and Scott Darrah, president of BSLLT, served as guest speakers to address the BSLLT Building Fund Campaign.

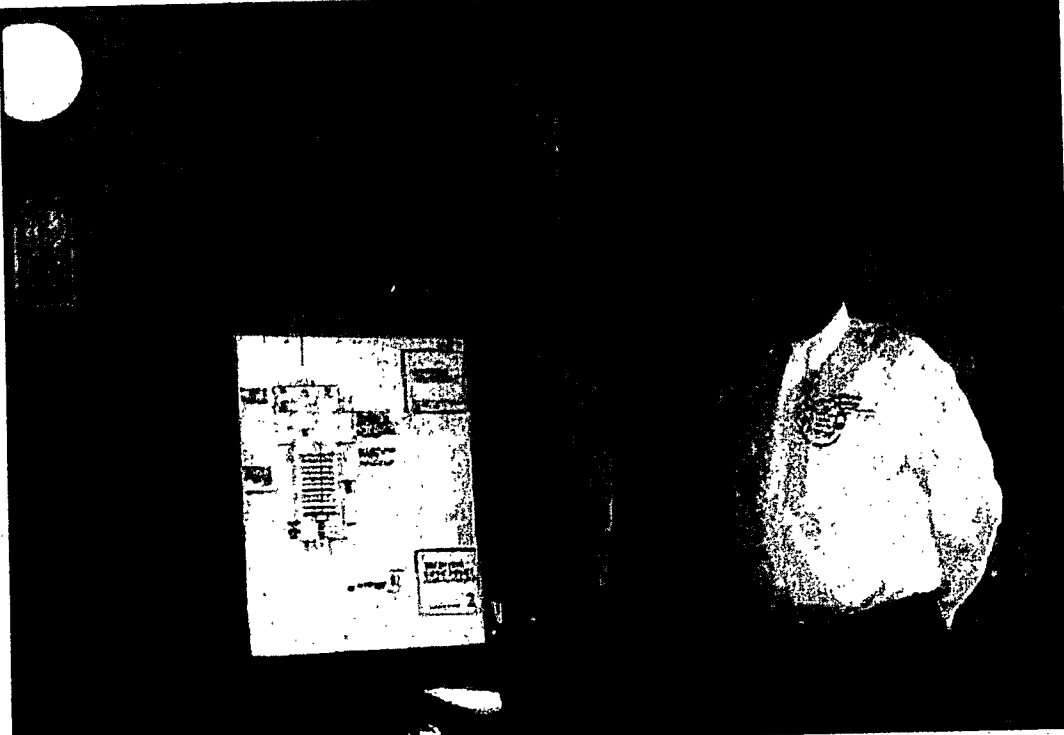

The 56-year-old theater located at 301 Boardman Ave. is in need of renovation and preservation. Serving as the only theater for Hancock County, members have mounted an aggressive effort to save the theater.

Haun applied the strategic plan for the theater to the universal Rotarian standards called The 4-Way Test, created with the purpose of the development and maintenance of high ethical standards in human relations.

Points that were addressed followed the standards of:

Truth: Children involved in the arts do better in math, science and English and are less likely to get involved in illegal activities and are more apt to complete their education.

Fair: The arts recognize and address the community diversities of culture, race, age, physical limitations and talents.

Scott Darrah, Claire Haun and Jody Compretta with the plans for the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre renovations.

Goodwill: Nourishing the artistic endeavors of artisans, supporters, partners, by creating "borderless constituents."

Beneficial: Effects of a sustained art community include financial gain, increased community services, tolerance and an evolved quality of life.

The membership responded favorably and passed a motion that the Rotary Club complete a letter of support to be included in the grant application.

Responding to Darrah's invitation, several members volunteered to serve on the BSLLT Building Fund Committee. The Building Fund Grant through the Mississippi Arts Commission is to assist theater/arts establishments in the renovation/construction of buildings used for the sole purpose of the arts. BSLLT is currently seeking $104,000 in a 60 percent/40 percent matching grant.

President Jody Compretta, concluded the presentation with the comments that one of the top ten concerns made by industry when considering Hancock County for relocation is that of quality of life issues involving the viability of the arts.

He added the tremendous financial impact in a community that supports the arts.

Supporters are still needed in the area of fundraising, committee members and volunteers.

Hancock's Local Newspaper since 1892

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Olde Towne Players debuts with 'The Laramie Project'

BY NAN EHRBRIGHT
Contributing Writer

On Oct. 6, 1998, a cyclist found University of Wyoming gay student Matthew Shepard tied to a fence outside Laramie, brutally beaten and unconscious.

Two days later, two young men were arrested on kidnapping, aggravated robbery and attempted murder charges. Shepard never regained consciousness and died on Oct. 12.

The incident thrust the community — a theretofore quiet town of 26,687 people surrounded by prairie and cattle ranches and dotted with fast-food restaurants — into the unrelenting glare of a national media spotlight that changed its name from the "gem city of the plains" to "hate crime capital of America."

In November, 1998, five members of New York City's Tectonic Theatre arrived in Laramie for a year-long study of how the incident affected the town. They interviewed shopkeepers, teachers, students, bartenders, social workers, ministers and other residents.

"The Laramie Project" is the result of those interviews, written by Moises Kaufman in collaboration with the other four members of Tectonic Theatre.

A film of the play was selected as the opening night premiere for the 2002 Sundance Film Festival.

As Kaufman explains in the play, "This is not about the case. This is about the town: why did this happen here, what are people saying, how do they feel and think about what happened."

Olde Towne Players, the Coast's new community theater, will present "The Laramie Project" as its debut production at 8 p.m. Jan. 30 and 31 and 2 p.m. Feb. 1 at Serenity Gallery, 126 Main St., Bay St. Louis.

Serenity owner Jerry Dixon, a staunch supporter of the arts, has been generous in allowing Olde Towne Players to use his gallery for organizational meetings, auditions, rehearsals and performances.

Production designer Ray Kutos of Pass Christian, who is also a veteran actor and director, has designed the set, which will include a Sandy Higdon, Shannon Jenkins, Donna Oakley, Rachel Stanley, Marilyn Timms, Bryan Vonder Bruegge and Jim Welsh.

Several of them have 60 or more acting credits under their belts. A couple of them are "hitting the boards" for the first time. Three of them have been paid as extras in movies.

Schwabacher said the cast has bonded and developed a warm camaraderie.

"We're all having fun," she said, "which is just the way it's supposed to be."

"We've developed a workshop attitude," Schwabacher said. "It's really exciting working with everyone on a workshop basis, finding those different ways to interpret a line. Several times during initial readings, we would be going along and I would stop someone and say, 'Now, you read that line this way,' and I'd ask 'When you all were reading the play, did any of you hear that in a different way?'"

It was really illuminating. It's been very collaborative."

She cited an example: "One scene goes from the church to the courtroom, and I'm trying to figure it out and I try it one way. Then someone said, 'I think this would work.' And it did."

A visitor at the Feb. 13 rehearsal, herself an accomplished actress, noted that the production still had two weeks of rehearsal time.

"From what I saw, it's ready for an audience now," she said.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for students with ID at the door. Olde Towne Players will donate 50 percent of proceeds after expenses to the South Mississippi AIDS Task Force.

Checking in with Sarah Lancaster

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

She's the older woman of "Everwood," at least as far as Ephram Brown is concerned.

Played by Gregory Smith, Ephram is living the fantasy of many young men - a romance with the baby sitter - as The WB Network drama series resumes new episodes Monday, Jan. 19.

Madison Kellner (Sarah Lancaster) was hired to care for Ephram's younger sister, Delia (Vivien Cardone). Although he didn't like having Madison around at first, things have warmed up between them, to the chagrin of his father (Treat Williams).

"I think it's rare for her to let her guard down," Lancaster says of Madison. "Then here comes this teenage boy who, for all the wrong reasons, is making her feel something. It's a fine line to walk. In my personal life, I've always tended to date older, so I was kind of wary of how this was going to work. That was before I met Greg (Smith), and I think it's because of him that this does work. He's one of the smartest people I've ever met."

Previously recognized from "Saved by the Bell: The New Class," Lancaster knew what she was in for upon joining "Everwood." She remembers the producers calling Madison "strong-minded, quick-witted, all those things. She's in a band, so her attire is a little funky."

Lancaster admits she doesn't do her own singing on the show. She also concedes she wasn't an overt fan of "Everwood" before climbing on board. "I'd known of it. I make a point of watching everything new in terms of TV programming, because you never know what you'll end up auditioning for. 'Everwood' is my uncle's favorite show. He's a doctor with a teenage son, so he can really relate to it."

Birthdate: Feb. 12, 1980.
Other TV work: "Saved by the Bell: The New Class"; "Michael Landon: The Father I Never Knew"; "Undressed"; "Dawson's Creek"; "Boston Public"; "Scrubs"; "7th Heaven"; "Six Feet Under"; "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation."

Movie work: "Catch Me If You Can"; "Devil in the Flesh 2"; "The Mercury Project"; "Lovers Lane."
Hobbies: Ballet, reading and working out.

On being directed by Steven Spielberg in "Catch Me If You Can": "I would have worked for free, but don't tell him that. I felt like I was in a daze, like an out-of-body experience. He does a lot of improvising and puts a lot of trust in the actors. He works so fast, I found it amazing. He knows exactly what he wants to do."

Featured There's already Gov. Arnold, so why not Mayor Whoopi?

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Perhaps if Whoopi Goldberg really were the mayor of a city, it would be a fun place to live.

Goldberg plays the mayor in "Whoopi's Littleburg" Sunday, Jan. 18, on Nickelodeon. The first of three half-hour specials - the others will air in 2004 - aimed at preschoolers, the show is a sweet mix of puppets and actors with a bit of animation thrown in.

The opening show, "Welcome to Littleburg," focuses on Spencer the pig. He just moved to Littleburg and is worried about making friends. Proof that this is a fantasy town comes when mama pig allows Spencer, a preschool piglet, to board a bus and go downtown with T.J., a cat he just met.

T.J., also a puppet, lives with Mayor Whoopi. They visit her at work while she is conducting a city council meeting. "OK, so tomorrow will be funny hat day and Wednesday will be game day," Mayor Whoopi tells council members. Puppets and children vote on whether the snack of the day should be pretzels or bananas. When there is a tie, they opt to have one snack today and the other tomorrow.

Anyone who has ever suffered through a council meeting knows nothing is decided that easily, which is why, if Mayor Whoopi had such powers, it would be a grand idea to have her run a city. As usual, Goldberg emanates no-nonsense warmth. When she talks to the puppets, she neither camps it up or talks down, and that even approach makes the show work.

Of course it would be better if Goldberg and some of the actors didn't sing. The show is not at its best when they visit the sock store and the proprietor sings "Got a Sock to Find" to the tune of "9 to 5."

Ryan Seacrest tunes up to host third round of 'American Idol'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

You'd think another season of "American Idol" would keep Ryan Seacrest busy enough. He doesn't agree.

Last week, the talent-competition host launched a syndicated, weekday talk show, "On-Air With Ryan Seacrest," and assumed the reins from Casey Kasem in presiding over the radio staple "American Top 40." It's also time for another round of the program that brought Seacrest to national attention: "American Idol" starts year three Monday, Jan. 19, on Fox in the now-traditional way: with highlights of on-the-road auditions that often cause judges Paula Abdul, Simon Cowell and Randy Jackson to cringe.

New episodes also air the following two nights, with the series returning to its usual Tuesday-and-Wednesday schedule the following week. Viewers can again participate through phoned-in votes for their favorite "American Idol" contestants.

Even with all his other activity, Seacrest is thinking about who may be the next Kelly Clarkson or Ruben Studdard. He says, "People ask, 'What's the biggest change?' and I say, 'Well, the cast is different.' The judges and I are the constants, and I think you need something that's familiar in a television show, but you also need an element of surprise. Every time we do this, the surprise is a Ruben or a Clay (Aiken, the second season's runner-up), or a Kelly or a Justin (Guarini, the runner-up to Clarkson in season one).

"We saw more potential contestants than ever this year," Seacrest says. "I think there's an added level of enthusiasm and excitement from people who may have viewed this just as a made-for-TV competition, and didn't give it the credibility it deserved in the music world. After the success Kelly, Clay and Ruben have had, those who might have doubted the impact a TV show could have on a music career are stepping up. Who cares how you get there, as long as it's ethical? It doesn't matter if you make it because you're on TV or because someone sees you in a bar. If you make it, you make it."

Still, Seacrest concedes it takes more than "American Idol" to make that happen. "Kelly and I have talked about this," he says. "Once you leave the show (as the winner), it's not over, and it's also not easier. You really have to kick it into overdrive and excel, and then eventually transcend the association with 'American Idol' and become your own artist."

Though Seacrest has given up the weekday radio shift that initially made him a celebrity in Los Angeles, radio remains in his mix with his new "American Top 40" duties. "I'm positive that there is value in my being on radio," Seacrest says. "I love doing it, and we've been able to establish a partnership between 'American Top 40' and my 'On-Air' TV show. We've built a radio studio on the 'On-Air' set, so guests can be part of both shows. Also, things promoted on 'On-Air' can be won by listening to 'American Top 40.' I may have given up daily radio, but I'm implementing more radio into my TV work."

Seacrest insists he didn't push radio legend Kasem out of "American Top 40." "Fortunately, Casey was willing to trust me with hosting the show, which is one of the biggest goals any guy in radio can have. I was excited to meet Casey when I first had the chance a few years ago. Then, when I was asked to be his guest host a few months ago, I was just ecstatic. I was never aggressive about taking Casey Kasem's job, but I was aggressive about making it clear that if there was ever going to be another guy in that role, I wanted to be the guy. I was willing to wait patiently. I never expected it to happen this fast."

It's largely thanks to "American Idol," Seacrest acknowledges, that it happened at all for him. "There are absolutely no misconceptions to me about that. The success of 'American Idol' is something that comes once in a lifetime, and that has opened the door for everyone on the show to pursue the other things we want to. The series is a part of pop culture. We take our roles and responsibilities on it seriously, but it is a fun show to do. I like to poke fun at myself as much as anybody else does."

Bravo to give 'Keen Eddie' a reprieve

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

'KEEN EDDIE' LIVES: Well, sort of. The smart, funny Fox comedy canceled way too quickly by its trigger-happy network has been given a reprieve by Bravo. The arts channel has acquired rights to all 13 existing episodes of the 2003 series starring Mark Valley as a wise-cracking New York cop working for London's Scotland Yard, including six that Fox never broadcast. Bravo airs the original "Keen Eddie" pilot on Tuesday, Jan. 20, followed a week later by one of the previously unseen episodes. There are no plans to produce additional original episodes, however.

Q ■ Is Joe Mantegna, who plays the father in "Joan of Arcadia," the same actor who played one of the Shirk brothers in the movie comedy "The Money Pit"?

A ■ Yes, Mantegna, 56, played lecherous carpenter Art Shirk in that 1986 Tom Hanks-Shel ley Long comedy. Since then, the actor has become a familiar face in films and TV, but many people still think he has done his best work on stage in the plays of David Mamet, including "Glengarry Glen Ross," for which Mantegna won a Tony Award, and "Speed the Plow."

Q ■ The recent deaths of both John Ritter and his mother leave me wondering when John's father, Tex Ritter, died. What was his real name? (I'm sure it wasn't Tex). He was my favorite cowboy movie star. -Bob Myers, Fort Worth, Texas.

A ■ You're right, Bob. Woodward Maurice Ritter is a far cry from the screen name by which most people knew this singing cowboy star, who died of a heart attack on Jan. 2, 1974, just a few days before his 69th birthday.

Q ■ Did John Wayne ever make a movie called "Somewhere in Sonora"? -Sarah Christopher, age 84, Lower Lake, Calif.

A ■ Yes, Wayne starred in this 1933 Western, which is available on VHS via special order from Amazon.com.

Q ■ Will USA Network's "Peacemakers" be back for another season? -Billy C. in Kentucky.

A ■ Sadly, no. Despite decent reviews, the "forensics Western" starring Tom Berenger didn't draw a large enough audience to earn renewal. It will not be back.

'The L Word' breaks ground as first series about lesbians

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Finally, it's the ladies' turn. A quarter-century after Billy Crystal's character on "Soap" was out of the closet, years after "Queer as Folk" debuted, months after "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy" swept the country, gay women have their say.

The first program about lesbians, "The L Word," premieres on Showtime Sunday, Jan. 18, with a two-hour pilot. Hourlong episodes will follow, and judging by the first six hours, this wonderfully written, superbly acted drama will keep viewers involved. It may also shock some and unwittingly pander to straight men who fantasize about female-on-female sex.

Unfortunately, the pilot episode is not the series' best. Rather, it falls into the trap common to premium cable productions, which seem to feel that because they can show sex, they must, and as often as possible.

Still, some of this groundbreaking series is necessarily about sex. However, just as some of life is about sex, it is not all of life. Once the show gets going, sex becomes but another aspect of the women's lives.

The stars and creator muse about why it has taken so long for a show about lesbians to hit the air.

"I would imagine it has something to do with the fact that the industry is, in general, run by men, whether they be heterosexual or homosexual," says Jennifer Beals ("Flashdance"), who plays Bette, a lesbian. Driving from Vancouver, where the series is shot, to her Los Angeles home for the holidays, Beals stops along the Oregon Coast to talk.

Like everyone associated with the project, Beals expects reactions ranging from shocked horror to gleeful acceptance. "I would be concerned if there were no reaction," she says. She hopes viewers realize "the ways we are similar are much more numerous than the ways in which we are different. And not all lesbians are challenged by fashion."

Indeed, clichés are avoided. There are no plaid flannel shirts or fat, hairy women in sight.

"I myself had this idea before the advent of gay television," says Ilene Chaiken ("Dirty Pictures"), executive producer and writer. "I knew a lesbian show wouldn't be the first gay show."

At a Showtime luncheon for the series in Manhattan, Chaiken sips a cappuccino and recalls, "I came and told my stories and they stood up and said they'll do this. I was surprised."

Perhaps no more so than those who had long waited for such a show, such as newcomer Leisha Hailey, who plays Alice, a bisexual magazine writer. "Lesbians have never been portrayed on TV unless it was a small, tiny character," Hailey says. "I'm gay, and I can tell you that there's been nothing to identify with. I grew up watching 'Cagney & Lacey' just to see two women who were close. That's how pathetic it is."

"The L Word" is most likely to conjure comparisons to "Sex and the City" because it revolves around girlfriends talking frankly about careers, babies and, yes, sex. Of course, in this case, there is no Mr. Big.

The main characters are Bette, a museum curator who has been with Tina (Laurel Holloman, "Boogie Nights") for seven years. They desperately want a baby, and learn how tough it is to find a sperm donor and conceive. Tina quit her job to prepare for pregnancy.

That is undoubtedly wonderful and will sound about as realistic to most women as having a personal masseuse waiting for them when they return from work. Like too many programs, this one focuses on those who do not worry about money. Some of the women have no obvious means of support, but still manage to hang out at a coffee shop, which is bound to trigger comparisons to "Friends."

That aside, "The L Word" is very much its own show. The story begins with a couple, Tim (Eric Mabius, "Resident Evil"), a swim coach, and his girlfriend, Jenny (Mia Kirshner, "Not Another Teen Movie"), a vulnerable young writer. Jenny graduates from college and moves to Los Angeles to live with Tim.

They live next door to Tina and Bette, who invite them to a party. Soon, Jenny questions her sexual orientation as she is drawn to Marina (Karina Lombard, "The Firm"), an exotic beauty who owns the coffee shop where they all gather.

The other friends are Shane (Katherine Moennig, "The Shipping News"), who has apparently slept with every willing woman in the L.A. area, and Dana (Erin Daniels, "One Hour Photo"), a professional tennis player petrified of being outed. There's also Bette's half-sister, Kit (Pam Grier, "Jackie Brown").

Jennifer Beals plays Bette, a curator who is gay, in Showtime's "The L Word," the first series about lesbians, premiering Sunday. "There's a lot of uncontrollable laughing on set," she says.

The supporting players are delightful, with Holland Taylor as a socialite art patron and Ossie Davis as Kit and Bette's imperious father. "You don't want to drop a word or a comma with him," Grier says from her home two hours south of Denver.

Kit, a struggling singer, is straight. "I wanted Kit to be the antithesis of Bette," Grier says, "and wear the wrong clothes, eating her ribs and beans and rice ... Kit doesn't take any mess from anybody. She is like the Terminator. She loves the girls because they accept her, and she doesn't judge them."

Kit battles her own demons, as she struggles to stay sober and pines for her estranged son. Deeper into the season, the women deal with Tina's pregnancy and Bette's volatile work situation. Dana falls in love with a chef who wants her to come out of the closet. Shane continues to sleep with many women, encountering one who does not like to share. Jenny and Tim must face that she has had sex with Marina. Will their quickie wedding squelch her Sapphic desires?

The characters are rich enough that viewers will want to know, and that is precisely what Chaiken wants.

"I just want to tell great stories that people are really moved by," she says. "I just hope that people give us a chance. It is not just about lesbians. We really do take on some big issues and deal with religion and race ... I just set out to tell stories, to tell how much we are like them. The challenge is to show the universality of our lives and to show things they have never seen."

In the Spotlight

Remember to watch PBS special 'The Forgetting'

The word "epidemic" usually sparks horrible thoughts of SARS, AIDS or a plague that quickly destroys bodies, yet a far more silent and evil epidemic has taken root.

PBS' extremely well done "The Forgetting: A Portrait of Alzheimer's" Wednesday, Jan. 21 (check local listings), is a 90-minute documentary explaining the disease statistically, physically, scientifically and most importantly, personally. It is followed by "Alzheimer's: The Help You Need," a question-and-answer segment with experts. David Hyde Pierce ("Frasier") moderates. Pierce lost his father and grandfather to the illness, and he is a spokesperson and board member of the Alzheimer's Association.

The documentary and the subsequent half-hour show, which offers resources and guidance for those taking care of Alzheimer's patients, treat the disease in a smart, compassionate manner.

The documentary explains that Alzheimer's robs people of who they are. They look the same, but do not act the same as their brains shut down. Scientists understand how it happens, and they are working on figuring out why and how to prevent it.

Unless a cure is found soon, the already staggering numbers will reach terrifying heights. Consider this: 15 years ago, 500,000 U.S. residents had Alzheimer's. Today, the number is five million. As huge as that number is, if a solution is not found, it will increase exponentially as baby boomers hit 65. The chances for getting Alzheimer's increase as people age.

As important and mind-boggling as the statistics are, a disease hits home when people can see and understand what it does to individuals and their families. Here, the documentary shines as it focuses on several families doing their best to care for someone with Alzheimer's.

Isabelle McKenna was a lively, fun woman, and the documentary illustrates this by showing home movies of a vivacious woman at children's birthday parties. Today, she lies in a quiet state in a nursing home, and her daughters and husband visit her. She does not seem to recognize them, but they do not give up. She has had Alzheimer's for 13 years.

Her husband, Thomas, notes that they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. She did not know.

Gladys and Harry Fuget have been married for 45 years, and although Gladys has always been ornery, contracting Alzheimer's brings her stubborn ways to new heights. He deals with her lovingly and with the sort of patience that most people should aspire to have. She yells at him, and he tells himself that it is the disease talking, not her.

In the Noonan family, a genetic mutation makes the 10 children have a 50/50 chance of developing early Alzheimer's, which their mother had at 39. One sibling has died, one is quite ill, and another is in the beginning stages. Among the tragedies is that the family knows what to expect.

Taking care of an extremely ill patient is incredibly hard work. In the "Q and A" follow-up, an audience member tells Pierce that he is overwhelmed and exhausted. "You should be overwhelmed and exhausted because it's an overwhelming and exhausting thing," Pierce tells him. He advises the man to "take care of yourself."

Pierce tells people to call 1-800-272-3900, the Alzheimer's Association Hotline, which refers callers to resources in their area.

David Hyde Pierce, best known as Niles Crane in "Frasier" is a spokesperson and board member of the Alzheimer's Association, and he hosts the question and answer show "Alzheimer's: The Help You Need," following "The Forgetting: A Portrait of Alzheimer's" Wednesday on PBS.

Timing, conditions make Australian Open unpredictable

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

Imagine having to be at your best following a two-month layoff.

It doesn't matter what field or discipline you're talking about. Being out of practice almost always begets rust and less-than-optimum performance.

Such is the case with the Australian Open, the tennis year's first Grand Slam event. Many players there haven't competed in tournament play since November, so naturally they may not be at the top of their game.

And by extension, if the Kim Clijsters, Serena Williamses or Andy Roddicks of the world aren't playing well, perhaps a lower seed might sneak into the final-four picture.

That, ESPN's Patrick McEnroe explains, is one aspect that distinguishes the Australian Open from the other major tournaments. "I always find that this Slam is sort of the quirkiest one," says McEnroe, who will provide analysis from Melbourne for ESPN and ESPN2's coverage of the Open, which begins Sunday, Jan. 18, and runs through Jan. 31. "It's like having the playoffs start the second week of the season. So in that way, it's very unusual, and I think more often than not you see guys come out of nowhere and do very well."

"A lot of the top players have played until the end of November and guys who were maybe in the Davis Cup final, some into December. So there's not a lot of time to really rejuvenate, rest and prepare physically. So, it's often you see guys sort of sneak up on people and get hot."

That said, someone like Andre Agassi, the defending men's singles champ who is known for his meticulous preparation and superb physical conditioning, is bound to have an advantage. "Obviously, in my mind it's always an advantage for Agassi down there because you know that he's put the work in in the offseason," McEnroe says. "I mean, he only played one tournament after the U.S. Open, which he played pretty well in at the finals in Houston - the Masters Cup (in November). You know he's going to come in in outstanding condition, physically, and that's really a key."

"I mean, for any Grand Slam, obviously, that's important," McEnroe continues. "But the Australian, because the conditions can be brutal - it can be very, very hot; it can be quite cool at times, and you're coming in basically having not played many tournaments - so fitness is a big factor down there. It's very unusual to see four of the big names get through to the semifinals. You always sort of see somebody come through there - whether it's Rainer Schuettler last year in the final, Thomas Johansson a couple of years ago - you can sort of expect the unexpected."

Another favorite has to be Roddick, who won his first Grand Slam at the U.S. Open in September. "I think his confidence is sky high," McEnroe says. "I think he dealt with a lot of press and a lot of attention after he won the U.S. Open and sort of got that monkey off his back, if you want to call it that."

"But now he comes in No. 1. He comes in as the top seed in the Australian, so in that way, it's a different kind of pressure for him. I think he'll handle it well. He's handled every other step in his maturation very well, but this is another one. I mean, now he's the guy on top, and with (No. 2 men's seed Roger) Federer and (third seed Juan Carlos) Ferrero chomping at the bit, he's certainly in no way distanced himself from them yet. But in saying that, I think Roddick now is much more mature. Having won that first Slam, I think he'll relax a little bit, which for him will probably be good. And by no means is he a cinch to win the Australian, but I think he's certainly one of my two or three picks."

Less certain, in McEnroe's mind, is the status of defending women's champ Serena Williams, who is coming off left knee surgery to repair a partially torn quadriceps tendon last summer. "She was supposed to play one of these warm-up tournaments ... that she just pulled out of," McEnroe says. "To me, that sort of sends up a slight warning signal, like maybe she's not 100 percent healthy. That's the question mark. How healthy is she? I mean, if she's healthy, she's going to be right there at the top."

"I, personally, don't think it's going to be that easy for her to just walk back in and dominate. If she can, more power to her. ... Being off for six months is a long time. It's a long time for a tennis player."

"San Antonio Spurs at Boston Celtics" Sunday, Jan. 18 (ABC, 12:30 p.m. ET): The World Champion San Antonio Spurs make their only visit to Boston this season to take on the Celtics. The Spurs' slow start to the season (9-10) was rectified with a recent double-digit winning streak to vault them to the top of the league's toughest division. With Tim Duncan at the top of his game, San Antonio will be tough to beat, but the Celts can counter his offense with the scoring of swingmen Paul Pierce and Ricky Davis.

"NFL Football" Sunday, Jan. 18 (CBS, 3 p.m. ET): Before its final destination in Houston, the road to the Super Bowl winds through two more cities today to determine the conference champions. The first stop is on CBS for the AFC Championship game, followed by the NFC title contest on Fox. The teams competing were not known at press time.

"Bob Hope Chrysler Classic" Wednesday, Jan. 21 (USA Network, 4 p.m. ET): Hackers measure themselves against the best when the 45th Bob Hope Chrysler Classic tees off from La Quinta, Calif. Celebrities including Carson Daly, Greg Kinnear, Joe Pesci, Troy Aikman and Pete Sampras play alongside the stars of the PGA Tour for the tourney's first four rounds, then the pros settle things during Sunday's final round. That's the day Mike Weir took charge a year ago to capture the first of his three wins - including the Masters - in 2003.

All My Children

Jack stunned Bianca by revealing that he knows she's pregnant with Michael's baby, but promised to keep her and Kendall's secret from Erica. Greenlee decided to give up on Juan Pablo and pursue Ryan, who resisted her advances. A determined Greenlee vowed to prove that Kendall is lying about being pregnant. Dr. Lossin drew Bianca's blood as part of the ruse to make it appear as though Kendall is pregnant, and the blood sample was accepted as proof of paternity in court. Coming: Erica agrees to marry Jack.

As the World Turns

After Katie said a final goodbye to Simon and told Mike she loves him, Simon was shown to be alive. Barbara admitted to Paul, Jennifer and Hal that she killed Rose, but new evidence - the records from Paul's computer - conflicted with her admission of guilt. Barbara then told Will that they have to leave the country because of her confession. Craig agreed to convince Dusty not to testify against Molly, and in return she agreed to be quiet about Annabelle and him framing Paul. Coming: Sarah moves in with Ben and Jessica.

Bold and Beautiful

Ridge walked out of dinner at Massimo's when he found Nick there and learned that Massimo offered to let Nick and Brooke raise the baby in his penthouse. Later, Massimo schemed to get Nick and Ridge together in his office. As Ridge told Nick that he will never forgive him as long as Brooke is in Nick's life, the phone rang, with Brooke calling and asking them to make peace with each other. Bridget was happy with Deacon's recovery, but said she is not interested in him romantically. To get Oscar further under his control, Massimo bought Oscar's building and had him turned out so Oscar would come to him for help. Coming: Thomas meets someone new.

Days of Our Lives

The charges against Tony were dismissed for lack of evidence after the murder weapon was not the samurai sword, but the knife used to cut the wedding cake. Tony believed that the killer is female, which piqued Victor's interest. Hearing this, Nicole fired a gun at Victor but missed, then told Brady that Victor killed Colin. Doug and Julie returned to Salem with a souvenir of their travels - a giant Bengal tiger - that fit into Celeste's prediction of yet another death. Jennifer learned that she might have to make a decision between her own health and the life of her unborn child. Coming: Sami remains a sworn enemy of Kate.

General Hospital

Carly entered Shadybrook Sanitarium in order to get Alcazar out of her thoughts. However, Faith had Carly drugged and had thoughts of Alcazar planted in her mind. Courtney began to become suspicious of Brian. Alexis told Zander she's on to his framing of Nikolas for Cody's murder. Nikolas convinced Emily to leave town to keep her safe from Zander, who began to beat Nikolas. Sam risked life and limb in pursuit of the treasure, but the jewels were seized by a pirate who waylaid Jax and brought the treasure to Helena. Dillon was devastated when Georgie made him believe that she's having sex with her new boyfriend. Georgie started to tell Dillon the truth but was stopped by a timely interruption from Sage. Coming: Sonny tells Carly they're through.

Guiding Light

Alan offered to buy Olivia's stock options, and she agreed, having a plan in her mind. After learning that Phillip is capable of reason, she proposed to him. Alan suggested to Buzz, Josh and Billy that they find the witness in the Maryanne Caruthers incident and get rid of him or her. Danny refused to accept a contribution from Vinnie Salerno but realized that, because of the law, he can't win the money war with Ross. Cassie turned against her best friend, Blake, by endorsing Danny. Coming: The political campaign gets ugly.

One Life to Live

Troy insisted that 'the doctor' is the Music Box Killer, but Rae believed that Troy was referring to himself as Colin and is in fact 'the doctor.' Evangeline warned Kevin that she will use his affair with Blair in her defense of Todd, and forced Kevin to give a deposition and blood sample as evidence. Starr began a hunger strike in support of Todd, who was given bail and confronted Blair. Roxy told Asa about Nigel buying the hotel in Angel Square and leaving Asa's employ, but Asa's calm reaction troubled Nigel. David headed to Puerto Rico to find Adriana. Coming: Lindsay fears she'll be the next victim.

Passions

Learning of Fox's interest in her, Theresa agreed to give him a chance. Chad's pleas to Whitney fell on deaf ears, and he turned to Fox for help. Kay planned a romantic evening to seduce Miguel, taking advantage of Charity being away at the ski lodge. Suspicious that Beth may

Paul was surprised to discover that Danny's career isn't as successful as they thought. Dru urged Jack to have Phyllis arrested, but Jack refused, believing she will return the orchid. When Diane gave Jack a supportive kiss, he didn't resist. Becker pushed Michael to help make the case against Victor. Coming: Danny keeps a secret from his friends.

Another Simone bites the dust in 'Passions'

By Candace Havens
© Zap2it

"Passions" again is searching for an actress to play the role of Simone Russell.

Chrystee Pharris-Larkins has decided against renewing her contract with the daytime drama. The actress took over the role from Lena Cardwell three years ago.

Pharris-Larkins' side job is as a motivational speaker, and the actress says she was telling people to follow their dreams, but wasn't doing that in her own life.

She's already working on a special project with singer Kelly Rowland. But don't look for the actress to disappear immediately. Her contract runs through February.

In other news: David Hedison (ex-Spencer, "Another World") will make life more complicated for Jill Abbott and Katherine Chancellor (Jess Walton, Jeanne Cooper) in "The Young and the Restless." He'll play a recurring character who figures prominently in a story line for both women.

Dear Candace: I'm really confused about something on "Days of Our Lives," and it has nothing to do with those murders that are making everyone so mad.

But I will say that all of my friends are super angry about their favorite characters dying, and we all hope that some of them come back from the dead. They do it all the time on soaps, so it could happen.

Anyway, my question is about Lucas and Sami (Bryan R. Dattilo, Alison Sweeney). One of my friends says it's really gross that they ever got together because they are related. She says they are cousins, but she can't exactly explain how. Do you know? - Kylie S. in Chicago.

Dear Reader: The characters are related through marriage. But it is complicated, so it's no wonder you are confused.

Here goes: Bo (Peter Reckell) is Sami's uncle. Hope (Kristian Alfonso) is Lucas' cousin because her mother and his father were siblings.

Bo and Hope are married, so Sami and Lucas are only related by marriage.

According to Jim

Despite Cheryl's (Courtney Thorne-Smith) desire to keep Gracie and Ruby (Billi Bruno, Taylor Atelian) away from a horror movie, Jim (Jim Belushi) takes them to the picture on the sly in "Scary Movie." The secret trek may be exposed when the girls start having nightmares from what they saw on the screen. Another episode follows immediately.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Navy NCIS

A Marine's parachute fails to open, causing his fatal collision with a parked car, in "Hung Out to Dry." Gibbs (Mark Harmon) and his colleagues determine the parachute's safety was compromised, leading to an investigation of the victim's platoon. Patrick Labyorteaux makes a crossover appearance in his "JAG" role as Lt. Bud Roberts. Chaney Kley ("Darkness Falls") also guest stars.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Gilmore Girls

Jason (guest star Chris Eigeman) is sworn to secrecy by Lorelai (Lauren Graham) about their relationship in the new episode "The Nanny and the Professor." She's then surprised to learn that he attended a charity function with another woman. Rory (Alexis Bledel) tries to cover for Paris (Liza Weil), who has a secret nighttime rendezvous with Professor Fleming (guest star Michael York).

8 p.m. on 38-WB

One Tree Hill

Brooke (Sophia Bush) finally dates Lucas (Chad Michael Murray), who suddenly has free time when a basketball practice is cancelled, in the new episode "You Gotta Go Back There to Come Back." At Deb's (Barbara Alyn Woods) behest, Dan and Nathan (Paul Johansson, James Lafferty) take a weekend trek together, and it becomes memorable for all the wrong reasons.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

Alan Alda in Scientific American Frontiers

The series launches its 14th season with "Losing It," a sequel to an earlier episode titled "Fat and Happy?" Host Alda monitors an experiment intended to help 12 people lose weight and keep it off. Each of the subjects goes through a different slimming process, from diets obtained online to gastric bypass surgery. The hour also explores physiological reasons why dieting is so hard for so many individuals.

8 p.m. on BRAV

Keen Eddie

He's a New York cop on assignment in England, and that can only mean one thing: a culture clash. In the pilot episode for this drama series, police Detective Eddie Arlette (Mark Valley, "Pasadena") is sent to work with Scotland Yard after a Big Apple drug bust goes awry. He's teamed with a staid British counterpart (Julian Rhind-Tutt) and forced to share quarters with a no-nonsense Englishwoman (Sienna Miller).

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: Crazy in Love

Georgie's (Holly Hunter) life on Puget Sound largely revolves around her sister, mother and grandmother (Frances McDormand, Gena Rowlands, Herta Ware). Work prompts Georgie to expand her horizons, and she assures her husband (Bill Pullman) that he won't lose her — despite a handsome peer's (Julian Sands) obvious attention to her. This serio-comic 1992 TV movie was directed by Martha Coolidge ("Introducing Dorothy Dandridge").

8 p.m. on USA

Movie: Clear and Present Danger

Harrison Ford reprises his role as Jack Ryan, a CIA agent who becomes entangled in political double-dealing when he is unexpectedly called in to replace the agency's chief (James Earl Jones). Fast-paced action, a sly script and Ford's admirable performance make this 1994 adaptation of a Tom Clancy novel a real audience pleaser. Willem Dafoe, Anne Archer and Hope Lange also star.

Wednesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Smallville

Another of Clark's (Tom Welling) superpowers becomes evident to him in the new episode "Whisper." Left temporarily sightless after using his heat vision to stop a robbery, he discovers how far his hearing extends. It's a curse as much as a blessing, since he eavesdrops on conversations he ends up wishing he hadn't picked up on.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The O.C.

Sandy and Jimmy (Peter Gallagher, Tate Donovan) become restaurant owners while their respective wives, Kirsten and Julie (Kelly Rowan, Melinda Clarke) have a showdown, in the new episode "The Rivals." Seth (Adam Brody) has second thoughts about Summer (Rachel Bilson) when she gets a new boyfriend. Ryan (Benjamin McKenzie) becomes more determined to expose Oliver (Taylor Handley).

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Angel

Title star David Boreanaz doubles as actor and first-time director in the new episode "Soul Purpose." Angel (Boreanaz) faces another threat from Spike (James Marsters), who is being guided by a stranger (guest star Christian Kane) in trying to assume Angel's place in the vampire hierarchy. In a series of hallucinations, Angel envisions himself losing to Spike.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

The West Wing

Uncertainty hangs over Washington, D.C., in "7A WF 83429." Fearful for his kidnapped daughter, President Bartlet (Martin Sheen) is on the sidelines as the speaker of the house (guest star John Goodman) serves as temporary chief executive. After the vice president's resignation, the choice of a new second-in-command also is an issue.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

The Forgetting: A Portrait of Alzheimer's

The disease that robs people of their memories and, in many cases, the ability to function normally is examined in a new documentary incorporating personal stories. Animation reveals the specific impacts of Alzheimer's on the brain. Immediately following, actor David Hyde Pierce ("Frasier") — whose father and grandfather were Alzheimer's patients — hosts the related program "Alzheimer's: The Help You Need."

8:59 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

A savage rape and murder puts the police detectives and prosecutors on the trail of a possible serial killer in "Bodies." Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse

L. Martin) try to determine what the teenage victim did in her final hours, and the results cause them to link her death to a similar homicide five years earlier.

9 p.m. on MTV

Newlyweds: Nick & Jessica

In its second season, will this unscripted series become a parody of itself? One hopes not, especially since the Lenos and Lettermans of the world already have taken plenty of shots at it. Jessica Simpson — who now knows the difference between chicken and tuna — and her endlessly patient and understanding husband, Nick Lachey, start year two of the show that follows their wedded life and respective music careers.

Tru's (Eliza Dushku) abilities are called into play at a high-school reunion she didn't want to attend in the new episode "Reunion." Her graduation class's most popular female student (guest star Jodi Lyn O'Keefe, "Nash Bridges") is killed during the event, and in going back in time to prevent the tragedy, Tru discovers that several other classmates had motives for the murder.

She gets a big surprise, though, when she goes to tell Vince. Val (Jennie Garth) debates meeting with her engaged high-school boyfriend (guest star Ed Kerr) when he comes to New York.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

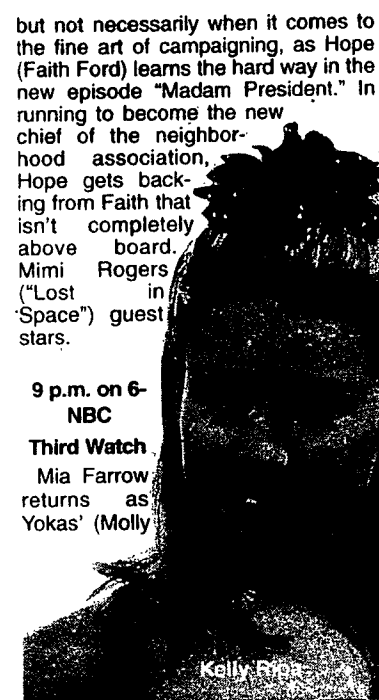

Boston Public

A bake sale might become much more, in a negative sense, in the new episode "Chapter Seventy-Eight." The goods are being sold by conservative students who want to show their take on affirmative action, setting the stage for a potential race riot. A new art teacher (guest star Phil Buckman) faces budget constraints.

Having a sister as determined as Faith (Kelly Ripa) can be a good thing,

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Third Watch

Mia Farrow returns as Yokas' (Molly

Price) mother in flashback sequences during Part 1 of "Collateral Damage." As Yokas anxiously awaits a prognosis on Emily (Bonnie Dennison), who has overdosed on drugs, she mentally traces the history of alcohol abuse in the family. Bosco (Jason Wiles) joins Cruz (Tia Texada) as she seeks the pushers who sold drugs to her sister (Martha Millan).

American Hot Rod

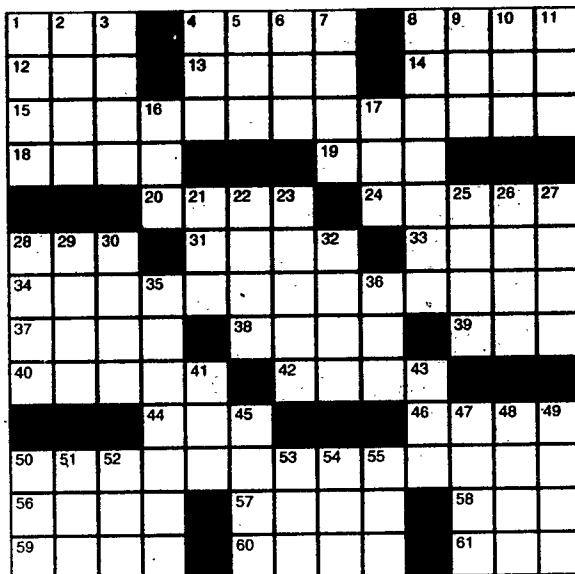

Sort of a sequel to "American Chopper," this series premieres and takes a similar approach in observing the design and construction of customized hot rods. Boyd Coddington, one of the best-known professionals in his field, begins the program by supervising the transformation of a 1956 Chevy Bel Air into the Junk Yard Dog, a street machine whose familiar looks cloak considerable horsepower.

Saturday Best Bets

6 p.m. on TNT

Movie: Desperado

Antonio Banderas made his debut as an action hero in this 1995 adventure from director Robert Rodriguez. A sequel to "El Mariachi," the film follows a guitar-toting gunman as he sets his sights on a drug lord. Cheech Marin provides a few laughs in his bit role as a bartender; Salma Hayek plays the role she reprised in the 2003 release that completed the trilogy, "Once Upon a Time in Mexico."

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: A Bug's Life

Created by Pixar, the computer-animation studio that also teamed with Disney on

Craig T. Nelson

"Toy Story," this 1998 fantasy focuses on an epic battle between brave ants and invading grasshoppers. Among the celebrities lending their voices are Dave Foley ("NewsRadio"), David Hyde Pierce ("Frasier"), Kevin Spacey, Julia Louis-Dreyfus ("Seinfeld") and Phyllis Diller.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Earthquake

Los Angeles is hit by "the big one" in this 1974 disaster epic that earned an Oscar for its special effects. Charlton Heston heads the requisite all-star cast as an architect who debates leaving his shrewish wife (Ava Gardner), who is his boss's daughter, as trucks loaded with livestock start falling off freeways. Genevieve Bujold, Richard Roundtree and an unbilled Walter Matthau co-star.

7 p.m. and BRAV

Movie: The Player

One of the most-discussed films of its time, director Robert Altman's superb 1992 satire targets Hollywood. A young studio executive (Tim Robbins) starts receiving anonymous death threats, evidently from a writer whose work he rejected. Co-stars include Greta Scacchi, Peter Gallagher ("The O.C.") and Whoopi Goldberg; many other celebrities, from Cher and Jack Lemmon to Lily Tomlin and Burt Reynolds, have cameos.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Biker Boyz

White-collar African-Americans moonlight as members of an after-hours motorcycle club in this 2003 drama, which is helped greatly by the typically convincing work of Laurence Fishburne as the club's leader — known as "Smoke." He tries to defend his championship in an annual bike competition, but staying at the top is made more challenging for him by younger rivals. Derek Luke ("Antwone Fisher") co-stars.

7 p.m. on TMC

Movie: Noriega: God's Favorite

Director Roger Spottiswoode is equally at home with the silly ("Turner & Hooch") and serious ("And the Band Played On"), and it shows in this black-comedy-tinged 2000 tale of the former Panamanian leader's rise and fall. Bob Hoskins ("Who Framed Roger Rabbit") stars as Manuel Noriega, who tells his life in flashback to a priest at the Vatican Embassy as U.S. troops try to drive him out by blasting rock music.

Movie: Goin' South

Jack Nicholson doubles as star and director of this offbeat 1978 Western comedy, the saga of an outlaw who narrowly escapes the gallows by taking a bride (Mary Steenburgen, in one of her first prominent roles). He still doesn't get off easy, since she expects him to help her run her mine — something the local sheriff (Richard Bradford) intends to enforce. John Belushi, Danny DeVito and Christopher Lloyd co-star.

Mannion (Craig T. Nelson) doubts a lobbyist's (guest star Rebecca Grant) death was the suicide that others suspect in the new episode "Party Favors." After a journalist (guest star Rick D. Wasserman) reveals he was going to help the woman write an expose of some politicians' alleged sex-for-favors practice, Mannion focuses his investigation on one congressman (guest star James Eckhouse, "Beverly Hills, 90210").

"ONCE UPON A TIME IN MEXICO": Antonio Banderas reprises his "Desperado" role in this action-crammed finale of the adventure trilogy that director Robert Rodriguez ("Spy Kids") began with "El Mariachi." The self-styled killer is recruited by a CIA man (Johnny Depp) to keep tabs on a drug kingpin (Willem Dafoe) who intends to eliminate the president of Mexico. Aware of the possible assassination, others get involved in the battle for power over the country. Salma Hayek briefly reprises her "Desperado" role. Mickey Rourke and singer Enrique Iglesias co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Rodriguez; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; isolated music track; "Film Is Dead: An Evening With Robert Rodriguez" featurette; DVD-ROM elements.  (R: AS, P, GV)
"OPEN RANGE": Directed by star Kevin Costner, this thoughtfully adult Western is sure to be embraced by fans of the genre, who have seen little of it on the screen in recent years. Costner and Robert Duvall play independent cattle grazers targeted by a lawless marshal (James Russo) who's in league with a tyrannical rancher (Michael Gambon). Annette Bening also stars as a frontier woman and potential love interest for Costner's character. DVD extras: audio commentary by Costner; "making-of" documentary; Costner-narrated "America's Open Range" documentary; deleted scenes; storyboard-to-scene comparison; music-video montage of scenes.  (R: AS, P, V)
"CABIN FEVER": Very graphic make-up effects make this gruesomely effective, yet darkly humorous thriller a less-than-ideal dinner-hour attraction for most people. Several college friends head for a remote cabin to take a break from studies - and contract a flesh-eating virus, the effects of which become apparent rather quickly. Stars include Jordan Ladd, who clearly spent lots of time in the make-up chair, and Rider Strong ("Boy Meets World"). DVD extras: audio commentaries by director Eli Roth and cast members; "making-of" documentary; isolated music track.  (R: AS, P, GV)

"MARC X": Lisa Kudrow ("Friends") and Damon Wayans aren't the likeliest co-stars, and their pronounced differences yield amusement - up to a point - in director Richard Benjamin's comedy, which sat on the studio shelf for a couple of years. Kudrow plays the pampered daughter of a medically sidelined tycoon (Benjamin, also a co-star here) who tries to deal with one of his employees, a controversial rapper (Wayans) whose lyrics have been targeted by an outraged senator (Christine Baranski).  (R: AS, P)
"MANIC": A young man (Joseph Gordon-Levitt, "3rd Rock From the Sun") with anger-management issues is sent to a mental institution, where a counselor (Don Cheadle) tries to help him overcome his problems - and avoid a possible prison term - in this well-acted drama. Zoey Deschanel co-stars as one of the other teenagers being treated at the facility. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by director Jordan Melamed and co-writer Michael Bacall; outtakes; alternate scenes.  (R: AS, P, V)
"BARNEY MILLER - THE FIRST SEASON": One of television's classic police comedies comes to DVD in a two-disc set encompassing the show's first 13 episodes. Broadway-musical veteran Hal Linden became a television star as a calm-despite-the-odds precinct captain overseeing a group of colorful detectives including Fish (Abe Vigoda), who eventually got his own spinoff. Max Gail, Jack Soo and Steve Landesberg also are cast regulars.  (Not rated: AS, P)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"HOUSE OF THE DEAD" (Jan. 27): A spring-break island rave turns into a terrifying situation for college students, who end up being pursued by zombies. (R: AS, P, GV)
"LE DIVORCE" (Jan. 27): While consoling her sister (Naomi Watts) over a complicated affair in Paris, an American (Kate Hudson) falls into a new romance of her own. (PG-13: AS, P)
"THIRTEEN" (Jan. 27): Young Nikki Reed is the co-writer and co-star of this acclaimed drama about a teenager (Evan Rachel Wood) influenced by a reckless peer (Reed). (R: AS, P)
"UNDER THE TUSCAN SUN" (Feb. 3): Diane Lane plays a divorcee who decides to start her life anew by moving to Italy and fixing up a villa, with help from locals. (PG-13: AS, P)

TOP 10 VIDEO RENTALS (Courtesy of Billboard, issue of Dec. 13):
1) "LARA CROFT, TOMB RAIDER: THE CRADLE OF LIFE"

Jason Priestley spoofs dating shows in ABC Family movie

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

A devastating auto-racing accident kept Jason Priestley down for a while, but he's definitely not out.

Fully recuperated from the 2002 Kentucky Speedway mishap that left him with a fractured spine, broken bones and a concussion, the former "Beverly Hills, 90210" star is joining the cast of the Fox series "Tru Calling." Before his episodes begin airing, he'll be seen in the ABC Family romantic-comedy movie "I Want to Marry Ryan Banks" Sunday, Jan. 18.

The satire of unscripted dating shows casts Priestley as actor Banks, whose career suffers from his womanizing. He agrees, on the advice of agent and best friend Todd (Bradley Cooper, "Alias"), to do a reality show in which female contestants vie to become his companion.

One contender is a Boston bookstore owner ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer" alumna Emma Caulfield, who played one of Priestley's girlfriends on "90210"). Todd ends up falling for her, though she seems destined to be chosen by Banks - generating problems between the two men.

Priestley admits he's not especially a fan of the reality show genre, but he adds, "My girlfriend loves it. I've never been into things like 'Survivor,' but I did watch the first 'Joe Millionaire,' because that was pretty funny. As much as these shows are about 'real' people doing 'real' things, they're edited, so someone is getting to put a spin on them before they go on the air. You can create whatever you want; all you have to do is steal a reaction shot here or another shot there. You can create an alternate reality, and 'Ryan Banks' gets into that."

Co-star Cooper's presence was appreciated by Priestley: "He's an awesome actor, and what a great guy. A lot of times when you go in to make one of these movies, you don't know who you're going to end up with on location for a month. It's kind of a crapshoot, but Bradley is just first-class."

Priestley knew the score with his leading lady, though: "Emma and I go way back, so I knew what I was getting into there. She's great. She's done very well since '90210.'"

In "I Want to Marry Ryan Banks," Priestley doesn't stray all that far from his Brandon Walsh persona on "90210," but he has embraced vastly different roles in independent films such as "Love and Death on Long Island" and the recent "Die, Mommie, Die."

He reasons, "If I played one character for the rest of my life, that would be boring and, to me, not what it is to be an actor. I think that in order to get better as an actor, you really have to push yourself to take chances and tackle things that make you scared. If you do it well, from that success comes greater knowledge and confidence, and a greater understanding of what you're doing."

"Tru Calling" will feature Priestley as a new morgue employee who opposes Tru's (Eliza Dushku) efforts to help people avoid their deaths, and the actor is looking forward to countering his usual image on a more regular basis.

"Tru needs an adversary," Priestley believes. "I really like shows that are a little dark and twisted - I still don't know how I ended up on '90210' - so for me to go in there and play, for all intents and purposes, the Grim Reaper will be really fun. I signed a big development deal with Fox, and doing 'Tru Calling' is part of that."

While it ended with his career re-energized, Vancouver, British Columbia native Priestley cites 2003 as "kind of a strange year" for him. "For the first half,
